Location & Local Information

Casa Vernaito is located in the stunning region of Playa Blanca, a place that is becoming increasingly popular with affluent tourists. One of the most unconventional attractions in this area is The Museo Atlantico, otherwise known as the Underwater Museum. This intriguing museum first opened its doors in 2016 and allowed guests to dive to the bottom of the sea and uncover a range of underwater sculptures. These pieces were created and commissioned by acclaimed local artist Jason deCaires Taylor, who is a pioneer in the underwater art niche. Guests do not need a diving license to see these works. Instead, they will be paired with an expert who will guide them through the sculptures over the course of 5 hours. The Museo Atlantico is just under 10-minutes away from the centre of Playa Blanca.

The Janubio Salt Flats are the largest of their kind in the Canary Islands and are still responsible for producing salt to this day. They were first formed in 1730 when a titanic volcano erupted, leading to the formation of natural walls around the nearby lagoon. This landmark may not seem like much, but the flats are able to produce a wide spectrum of colours, making it a truly magical sight. Guests can even browse through a selection of products, helping them to learn about how this humble industry helped to boost Lanzarote's overall economy. Janubio Salt Flats is about 20-minutes away, and the warehouse is open every day from 7 am till 2:30 pm.

Playa Blanca beach, better known as The White Beach, is very popular with both tourists and locals alike. This landmark was even awarded a European Blue Flag status for its immense cleanliness and natural beauty. This is an ideal place to visit if you are looking to sink your toes into some soft golden sand and become more mindful of the sound of the soothing waves. This beach can be found in the heart of the town, meaning that there are a collection of unique bars and restaurants placed close by. Therefore, guests can explore a selection of delectable local dishes before returning back to the beach to relax some more.
