Location & Local Information

Makarska is located in the Split-Dalmatia county on the Adriatic coast. Just 37 miles southeast of Split, the town is surrounded by the Biokovo Nature Park, which forms a breathtaking mountain backdrop. Surrounded by pine forests and with glorious beaches along the coastline stretching out from Makarska, the town also has a uniquely attractive, horseshoe-shaped harbour that overlooks Brac Island, just 9 miles away.

The town has a long, palm-fringed promenade which is lined with a string of cafes, ice cream parlours and boutiques. Away from the seafront, you can relax in the elegant town square, edged by beautiful Venetian houses and overlooked by the Church of St Mark. The town's idyllic, small pebble beach is backed by fragrant pine trees, making a very pleasant spot for a dip in the invitingly clear water. It is about half an hour's walk down into the centre of town and the beach.
