This beautiful house is split into two buildings; the first contains the living spaces and kitchen, and the second contains five suites, each with a bedroom, sitting area, and bathroom. Though the villa is in a country location, there are many amenities and places to visit nearby, whether you wish to pick up some shopping or are looking for exciting days out.

The closest village is 3.5 km away and has a selection of shops, bars and eateries. 7km away is Corinaldo, which is slightly bigger and is a stunning place with medieval town walls and a famous set of stairs called the Piaggio. If you want to visit the beach, you can find what is known as ‘velvet beach’ in Senigallia, 20 km from the villa. This vast, sandy beach has lots of space for sunbathing, gentle waters for swimming and a selection of shops and restaurants close to the seafront. There are also several spas along this stretch of the Adriatic coastline.

In the town of Senigallia, there is much more to see and do; if you are in the area at the end of July, you can join in with all of the festivities around the summer jamboree, a rock & roll festival.
