Whether you're seeking a peaceful retreat for two or a larger gathering of up to twenty, these lodges offer the ultimate in versatile accommodation.

Nestled into the Portland stone cliffs, Clifftops has been designed with incredibly high attention to detail by Morrow & Lorraine Architects so that it sits beautifully within the natural environment around it. Being so close to an area of Special Scientific Interest, sustainability was a key element in the design, the Portland Stone was locally sourced by Albion Stone Mines, just a short walk away and solar panels were installed as a green energy solution. The Clifftops lodges are individually named and decorated to reflect their environment. Together they tell the story of how the sea, stone, wildlife, weather and people shaped Church Ope Cove. Each of the five Clifftop lodges can comfortably accommodate up to four guests across two beautifully-appointed bedrooms. The living space in each lodge is open-plan and feature kitchen facilities making them ideal for a self-catered stay. For those travelling in a bigger group, Lodge Ope is the ideal location for all of the to be together.

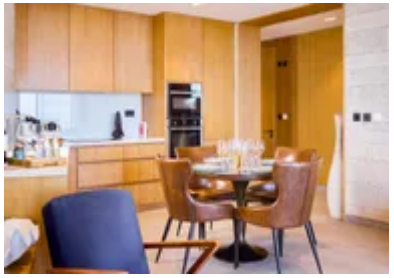

Outside, each lodge offers its own private terrace with spectacular views of the sea, giving you the perfect place to unwind and take in the breathtaking landscape. The Clifftops also boasts a one-of-a-kind roof garden deck, offering sweeping vistas of the UNESCO World Heritage Jurassic Coastline. Whether you're gazing out to sea or soaking in the serene surroundings, this is a place where luxury meets nature in its purest form.
