Location & Local Information

Villa Fenice is set in the historic heart of Mimice, a peaceful Dalmatian village just two kilometres from the beach. Surrounded by pine woods and charming stone architecture, Mimice offers a tranquil escape with a minimarket, local bars, and traditional restaurants. Its shallow beach, ancient church, and laid-back atmosphere make it an ideal base for exploring the Croatian coast.

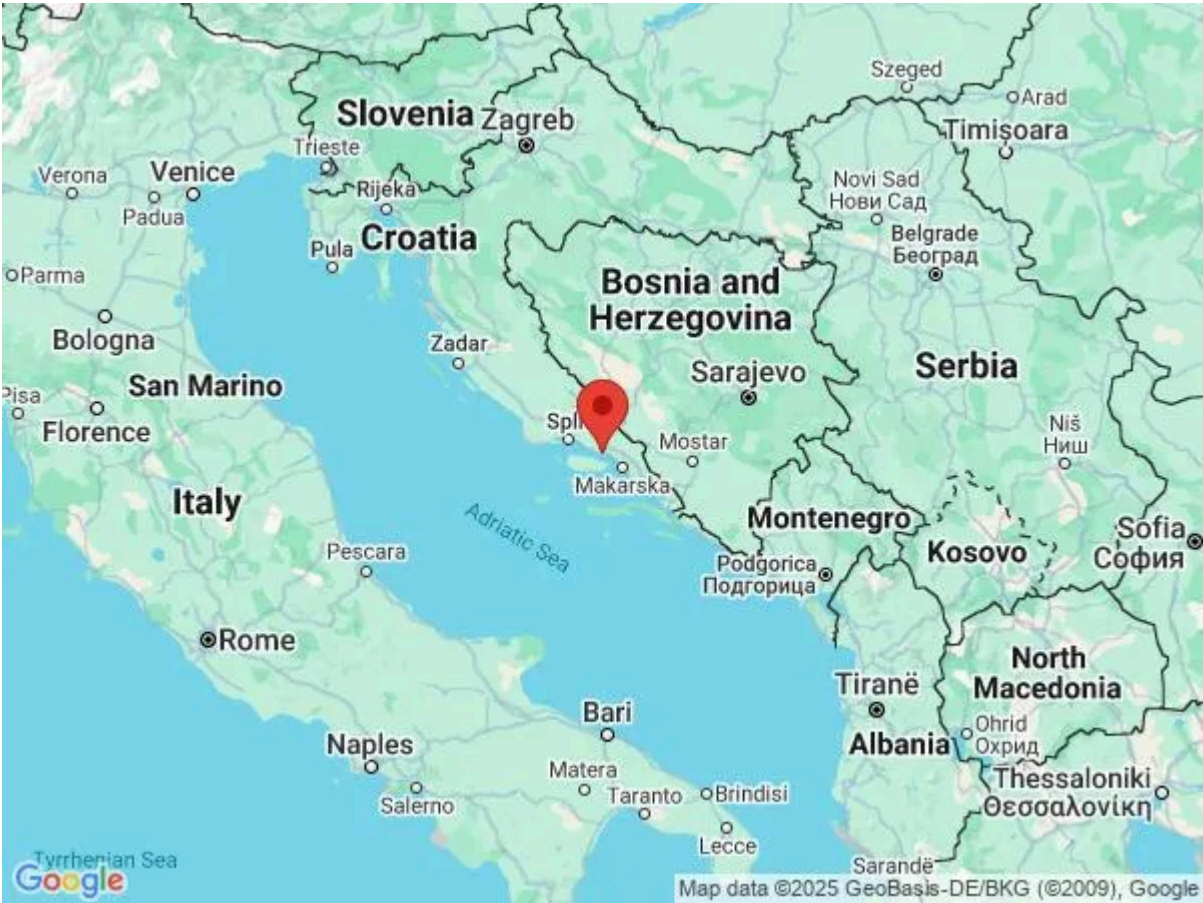

Nearby Omis, once a pirate stronghold, lies at the mouth of the Cetina River. The town features medieval fortresses, churches, a museum, and summer festivals, along with excellent dining. The Cetina River offers exciting activities such as white-water rafting, canyoning, ziplining, and kayaking, as well as more relaxed options like riverside picnics and swimming.

The Makarska Riviera, with its lively promenade, historic towns, and beach-lined coast, is within easy reach. Highlights include the family-friendly village of Baska Voda and the artisanal villages of Bast and Topici. Further along the coast, Makarska offers vibrant nightlife and marina boat trips.

Split, around forty kilometres away, blends ancient Roman architecture with modern energy. Its narrow streets are full of monuments, restaurants, and boutiques, providing a cultural and culinary counterpoint to Mimice’s serene charm.
