Accessible by a 30-minute speedboat ride, the island offers a peaceful escape with its pristine white-sand beaches and crystal-clear turquoise waters. Known for its vibrant coral reefs and rich marine life, the island is a top destination for snorkeling and diving, where visitors can explore colorful fish and even encounter manta rays or reef sharks. The surrounding landscape features lush, rolling hills and dense tropical vegetation, with hiking trails providing breathtaking views of the Andaman Sea and the island's coastline.

Racha Yai Island remains relatively untouched, with only a few small resorts and minimal development, offering privacy and tranquility to visitors. The laid-back atmosphere is ideal for those seeking relaxation in a secluded, natural setting.
