Location & Local Information

The Mani peninsula offers a spectacular rugged coastline, sleepy fishing coves, fortified villages, spectacular mountain views and sensational caves. Its quaint villages, including Oitylon, are built in enchanting honey and grey stone, looking absolutely beautiful against the pine and cypress clad hills. Mani is an unexplored natural treasure that is becoming ever more popular. It has been discovered and you can explore this fabulous area full of fragrant wild flowers, thyme, oregano and mixed with pebbled and sandy beaches when booking to stay at Villa Oitylon.

Mani consists of two parts, northern Mani with the picturesque coastal villages of Stoupa and Kardamyli and southern Mani, also called Deep Mani. Southern Mani enjoys tiny winding roads and a sensational, rugged coastline. Areopolis, above the Bay of Itylo is the start of the southern Mani, a village 8km from the villa. Just south of Areopolis are the famous Diros Caves. Visitors can hire their own ferryman to explore the underworld brimming with stalactites and crystal clear water.

The peninsula attracts visitors for its Byzantine churches and Frankish castles, its secluded beaches and stunning scenery. The fortified mansions and towers of Mani are a beautiful sight with tiled roofs and raw walls. Medieval villages are perched on hilltops with the stone towers hanging on the steep cliffs. From Kardamyli you can visit the nearby Alepotripa Caves and the dramatic Viros Gorge as well as Cape Tainaron. Kardamyli is one of the best preserved traditional villages of Mani with bars, shops and restaurants. You can hike to the Viros Gorge and the springs of the Viros River.

If you take the main coastal road in Mani, it will take you from the foothills of Mt Taygetos past Proastio with its beautiful churches, past the picturesque Stoupa and the ruins of the Frankish castle of Beaufort. It then follows to the harbour of Agios Nikolaos and Agios Dimitrios Beach. Passing through Platasa and Nomitsi, you will then reach Itilo, the capital of the region and then Areopolis. South of Areopolis are the Diros caves, Harounda Village and the village of Mezapos. The picturesque village of Gerolimenas is further along, spread around a pebbled beach and where you can enjoy some delicious food. Finally you will arrive in Vathia.
