This is Villa Gusteau, a charming and incredibly Provençal holiday home just a five-minute drive from the exquisite village of Gordes.

With space for up to 20 guests across various wings and a pretty cottage annexe, it's a wonderful place for a group of friends or extended family. Gather in the main living room to sink back into a comfy sofa with its DVD library and books or spend time chatting over a glass of wine as you prepare feasts in the beautifully rustic kitchen leading out to a little terrace. A playroom gives younger guests extra space to relax whilst the spacious annexe lounge is another lovely place to unwind.

Choose between the many bedrooms scattered across the villa whether it's the splendid master bedroom with its own sunny terrace, a characterful double under the exposed wood beams or one of the bedrooms off the courtyard or in the pretty annexe. Out of the ten main bedrooms, each has its own character and style and nine feature an en suite or private bathroom.

Set in an estate of over ten acres, discover the picturesque swimming pool, play a game of tennis on your private court, dine al-fresco cooking on the two barbecues or simply enjoy a morning coffee or evening aperitif from another tranquil spot across the gardens. To have your own lavender field is yet another enchanting feature of this gorgeous villa in Provence.

Head to nearby Gordes, just 3km away, and learn why it's one of Provence's most loved villages and don't miss the weekly market on a Tuesday morning. View the iconic image of the lavender fields by the beautiful Abbaye de Sénanque or head further north to visit the famous lavender farms near Sault.

Cycle, hike or drive through the Luberon landscapes passing cherry orchards, dense woodland, farmland and vineyards, coming across some of the other archetypal perched villages of this region such as Ménerbes, Bonnieux and Roussillon. Location & Local Information

Just set back off a quiet country road, reached via a tree-lined gated driveway, Villa Gusteau is set in 10 acres of wonderful grounds, only 3km from the heart of Gordes, one of France's 'Plus Beaux Villages' in the Luberon region of Provence.

The perched village of Gordes is an absolute joy to explore with its narrow lanes, picturesque cafes, many restaurants and inviting little shops. As you look out from various points in the village the views of the Luberon hills are simply glorious. Visit the lovely market on a Tuesday morning in the heart of the old village where you can pick up all sorts of fresh regional produce and local crafts as well as lavender products of course!

Just outside of Gordes is the beautiful Abbaye de Sénanque, famously surrounded by fields of lavender in the summer (usually the end of June to early August). If you adore lavender, then you may also wish to drive up to the fields around Sault, around a 45-minute drive away, and visit one of the lavender farms or distilleries, many which offer guided tours. There's also a Lavender museum near Coustellet, perhaps combine it with a trip to the village's excellent Farmer's market on a Sunday morning.

Of course, the Luberon offers yet more charming markets, enticing restaurants and a wealth of history across its many gorgeous villages and towns in places such as Ménerbes, Bonnieux, Apt, Roussillon and maybe even pretty Lourmarin to the south. Nearby L'Isle-sur-la-Sorgue is sure to enchant you with its antique stores and Sunday morning brocante whilst water lovers will adore kayaking along the Sorgue from Fontaine-de-Vaucluse.

Then there's endless walks and hikes through the Luberon landscapes passing vineyards, farms, cherry orchards and dense woodland. Seek out cycle trails between villages, along former railway tracks or even as far as Mont Ventoux or discover rock-climbing opportunities near the tiny village of Buoux.

Further afield, head out for day trips to some of Provence's wonderful towns and cities such as Cézanne's Aix-en-Provence, Van-Gogh's Saint-Rémy as well as historic Arles and Avignon.
