Location & Local Information

Cyprus has a population of 1 million people and is the Mediterranean's third largest island after Sicily and Sardinia. The island is divided up into six districts, and Villa Angelie is found in the district of Paphos. Paphos has a rich history and used to be the island's capital city – widely known for its connection to the goddess Aphrodite. Paphos is also UNESCO world heritage site, as well as being a popular tourist destination, with lots of cultural landmarks and attractions to visit.

Here are some of our favourite places to visit in the Paphos area:

Kato Paphos Archaeological Park

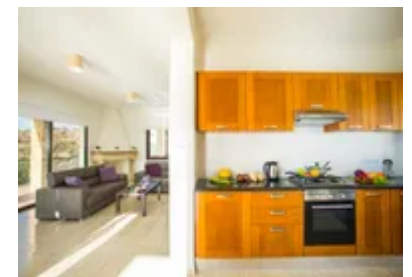

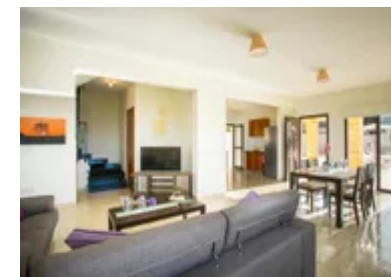

Within the archaeological park, you'll be able to visit the houses of Dionysus, Theseus, Aion and Orpheus which have stunningly preserved mosaic floors with scenes from Greek myths, such as Theseus battling the minotaur. You can also wander through the remains of a Roman marketplace and a small Roman theatre. Take lots of sunscreen and water as you'll be very exposed to the hot Cypriot sun here. But you won't need lots of cash because entrance is only 4.50 euros per person – what a bargain!

Paphos Old Town

Full of character, charm and shots to the Old Town of Paphos is what Mediterranean dreams are made of. The characteristic Cypriot town and was voted European Capital of Culture in 2017, highlighting its status as a true gem of the island. There are lots of nice cafes and bars you can stop at to enjoy a quick lunch or a cocktail, plus you can marvel at fantastic views thanks to the town's high up location. If you're into arts, you'll also find lots of local craft pieces to admire and take home as souvenirs.

Tomb of the Kings

A couple of km north of Paphos Harbour, the Tombs of the Kings is a necropolis dating back to the 4th century BC with gorgeous views out across the Mediterranean Sea. It's constructed in a series of caves and chambers carved out of sandstone rock, and while you won't actually find any kings entombed in the cemetery, you will find graves of local dignitaries and high-ranking officials. At only 2.50 euros to enter, this attraction is another complete bargain.
