Location & Local Information

Brač, one of the largest Adriatic islands, lies just off Croatia's coast and is easily reached by ferry from Split. Renowned for its white limestone—famously used in Split's Diocletian's Palace—Brač offers a rich mix of natural beauty, history, and culture.

The island is a haven for outdoor lovers, with highlights like Vidova Gora, the Adriatic's highest peak at 778m, offering stunning views. On the southern coast, Bol's Zlatni Rat beach is a must-see, especially for its unique shape extending into the sea.

Supetar, Brač's main town on the northern coast, features a picturesque harbour, lively cafés, and cultural attractions like the Ivan Rendić Gallery. The local cuisine shines in its seafood, lamb, wine, and the unique hrapoćuša cake from Dol, best discovered through guided tasting tours.

Island-hopping is easy from Brač, with quick boat trips to Šolta and its scenic village of Maslinica. On the mainland, Split offers historic grandeur in Diocletian's Palace, vibrant waterfronts, and lush Marjan Forest Park. Alternatively, ferry to glamorous Makarska for beaches, nightlife, and Biokovo mountain hikes. Brač is the perfect base for a diverse Croatian escape.
