Location & Local Information

Pollensa is a deeply inspiring region that has something to offer for every type of tourist. If you're looking to discover more about the biodiversity of this area, a trip to Joan March Gardens is a real treat. This landmark was first constructed in the late 1980s as an expressive way to celebrate the life and works of the oldest son of the March family. This group of individuals is best known for spurring Pollensa into an economic boom through the use of intuitive business ventures. Guests are free to explore the grounds at their own pace, observing a selection of rare olive trees as well as slim cypress trees. In particular, these trees are very significant as they can be seen on the town's coat of arms. The Joan March Gardens are situated just under 10-minutes away from the centre of the region and are open 24 hours a day, meaning that tourists can visit them throughout their time in Pollensa.

Pollensa Market is a perfect attraction to visit if you are looking to blend in with a variety of alluring cultures and customers. This market is home to 300 stalls and presents a diverse assortment of amicable and experienced vendors. The stalls are filled with a plethora of artisan items such as bags, clothes, and jewellery. Therefore, guests are free to pick up a variety of unique souvenirs that can remind them of the fantastic time in this region. There is also a separate section dedicated entirely to the fresh produce found throughout the area, allowing guests to pick up a few ingredients to use in their own cooking back in the villa. Pollensa Market is located just a stone's throw away from the town centre and is open every Sunday from 8 am to 1:30 pm.

Puig de Maria is one of Pollensa's most significant and enticing religious landmarks and can be found just under 10-minutes away. At the very top of a looming 330-metre summit is a quaint 14th-century monastery. This monument was first constructed in 1348 and acted as a remarkable shrine to the Virgin Mary. This monastery is packed full of history, and guests can even go inside to bask in the selection of well-reserved artefacts and fixtures in more detail. Plus, many previous guests have noted that it only takes 30-minutes to climb to the top of the hill, making it a fairly accessible journey for a majority of guests.
