

Casa Coru

Region: Galicia    Sleeps: 10

Overview

Set in peaceful countryside near Bertamirans and just 25 minutes from Santiago de Compostela, this tranquil four-bedroom villa offers the perfect family escape. Surrounded by woodland, it's ideal for relaxation, outdoor adventures, and exploring historic sites.

Inside, the villa features a modern, airy design with exposed stone walls, soft tones, and tiled floors. The inviting living area includes two large sofas, a flatscreen TV, and a cosy fireplace. Floor-to-ceiling glass doors open onto the terrace, blending indoor comfort with nature. A hardwood dining table encourages sociable meals, while the well-equipped kitchen and casual dining space cater to family cooking. On the ground floor, a spacious double bedroom and an adapted bathroom suit guests with reduced mobility.

Upstairs, three generously sized bedrooms—two doubles and a twin—offer scenic views, along with two pristine bathrooms.

Step outside to enjoy a morning coffee on the terrace, lounge by the pool, or unwind in the garden. In the evening, fire up the stone barbecue and dine alfresco under a vine-covered pergola.

With hiking and cycling routes at your doorstep and local amenities a short drive away, this villa is the ideal base for both relaxation and exploration.

Location & Local Information

Casa Coru is a peaceful retreat set inland among oak, birch, and chestnut trees, overlooking a picturesque valley. Ideal for nature lovers, the surrounding landscape offers scenic hiking and cycling opportunities, with chances to spot local wildlife.

Just a short drive away, the town of Bertamirans offers a taste of Galicia's famed cuisine, including fresh seafood and crisp Albariño wine. For a deeper cultural experience, take a 25-minute drive to Santiago de Compostela, Galicia's historic capital. This ancient pilgrimage city boasts a rich mix of Romanesque to Neoclassical architecture, centered around the breathtaking Catedral de Santiago and the intricate Portico de la Gloria. A rooftop tour offers stunning views, while the surrounding squares invite leisurely exploration.

Take a break in leafy Alameda Park, where the statue of As Marias honors two iconic local sisters. Afterwards, stroll down Rua do Franco for tapas and drinks, or explore the Mercado de Abastos, a lively market full of local delicacies like queso de tetilla and tarta de Santiago.

For a modern twist, visit the Centro Galego de Arte Contemporanea, a striking gallery with sunlit halls and rotating exhibitions—offering a contemporary counterpoint to the city's historic charm.

What we love

- The outdoor space at Casa Coru is a delight with its pretty garden, swimming pool, shady terrace, outdoor games, and sweeping countryside views
- The location is wonderfully peaceful and ideal for those looking to immerse themselves in nature
- Casa Coru boasts spectacular valley views but is also close to the vibrant city of Santiago de Compostela, which has plenty to do
- The ground floor bedroom is specially adapted for guests with less mobility

What you should know...

- All the bedrooms are a good size, but only one room has an en suite bathroom
- The quiet surroundings are ideal for guests who want peace and tranquillity
- There are three bathrooms, and all bathrooms feature a shower, but only one has a bath
- The swimming pool is not fenced, so younger ones should be supervised at all times
- Due to the rural location, car hire is strongly advised
