Location & Local Information

Nestled snugly into the hillside amidst ancient olive groves, Villa Miles overlooks the Pagasitkos Gulf near the village of Pelion, Thessaloniki, on the mainland of northern Greece, with stunning views of the Mediterranean Sea. Set within a nine-thousand-square-metre plot, the villa offers panoramic sea vistas, with Mount Pelion commanding views of the Gulf of Magnesia and the Euboia Sea, the legendary setting of Jason and the Argonauts. The nearest airport, Nea Anchialos National Airport in Volos, lies a one-hour drive, thirty-four kilometres away.

Surrounded by mountains, the villa offers secluded tranquillity ideal for hiking along stone paths, through forests and green slopes to picturesque beaches. Noteworthy among them are Mylopotamus, Agios Ioannis, Herefto, and Fakistra, boasting crystal-clear cobalt blue waters and various amenities.

Pelion, shunning mass tourism, invites exploration by car, particularly to its charming villages like Makrinitsa, Portaria, Milies, and Tsagarada, adorned with traditional three-story architecture and lush greenery. Activities abound, from mountain biking and snorkelling to wine tasting and exploring Greek Orthodox churches. A visit to Volos, a bustling coastal city known for its fish restaurants and Tsipouro, is essential, offering a blend of history, culture, and scenic beauty.

Pelion's allure extends throughout the year, with its postcard-perfect villages, snowy landscapes, and nearby ski centre in Chania promising both summer and winter delights. This is the Greece where you drive through a village square with men sat around sipping dark coffee or a glass of milky ouzo, counting beads on a string.

What we love

- The location of Villa Miles is simply stunning, nestled in a hillside, surrounded by lush greenery, and ancient olive groves, with a mountain backdrop, and a panoramic azure sea view – all of nature in its array of peacock colours on the doorstep
- We loved the eclectic mix of both the exterior and interiors, combining traditional with the contemporary, it really makes Villa Miles feel like a holiday home from home, it's cosy, bright, and welcoming
- The villa is great for a large family party or friend's sharing, there's six spacious double bedrooms, and four bathrooms, and all decorated with local handmade pieces to make a stay in Villa Miles unique
- The pool & terrace are a great place to relax and admire the views, even better is an afternoon spent snoozing in one of the 4 suspended hammocks overlooking the precipice and with panoramic views of the beautiful bay with cooling sea breezes – it just doesn't get better than that

What you should know...

- Villa Miles is beautifully positioned in the hills amongst olive groves, and whilst the privacy and seclusion is lovely, we highly recommend hiring a car to access the property and see all the sights you wish to see
- Although you can see the sea, Villa Miles is essentially a mountain retreat, and you will need a car to access the nearest beach
- The bedrooms configuration is five double beds, some with extra single beds for younger family members, and one room with two twin beds. Only two of the double bedrooms are ensuite, the other two bathrooms are shared
