

Fleur De Lupin

Region: Paris Region Sleeps: 11

Overview

Perfectly located for visiting artist villages, gorgeous market towns, famous chateaux and forested landscapes that have inspired painters since the 19th century, stay in a picture-perfect village house a short drive from Château de Fontainebleau and under an hour from Paris.

Once an uninhabitable farmhouse, the story behind Fleur De Lupin is enchanting; it was lovingly restored in the mid-20th century by its passionate owner who had arrived in France many years earlier as a young boy following the Russian Revolution and later travelled the world as a distinguished French soldier. The house's elegant and charmingly old-fashioned décor tells stories of those travels as well as his Russian heritage. It's a true privilege to be able to experience the warmth and character of this cherished home.

Across the former farmhouse and its adjacent cottage, up to 15 guests can stay at Fleur De Lupin across its eight welcoming bedrooms. Whether huddling by the fireplace or sipping coffee on one of the picturesque terraces outside, it's a joy at any time of year, especially with its two-hectare of gardens filled with evergreens bringing verdant richness across every season. In the summer months, when the glorious swimming pool awaits, look out for discreet splashes of summer colour with geraniums and fuchsia, and seek shade beneath the century-old catalpa tree.

Pick up fresh organic bread from the boulangerie less than a 5-minute drive away and visit nearby farms for a wealth of regional delights such as eggs, cheeses, honey and watercress grown by the local river. Enjoy the ambience in the charming village of Barbizon with its classic French restaurants, pretty shops and art galleries, then soak up the atmosphere in gorgeous Milly-la-Forêt with its monthly weekend brocante and wonderful Thursday morning market.

Château de Fontainebleau is merely 11km by car, one of France's most famous historic residences, whilst slightly closer to home are the exquisite gardens and fountains of Château de Courance, open most weekends from spring to autumn. Then of course there's the incredible landscapes of the Forêt de Fontainebleau and Parc Naturel Régional du Gâtinais Français, an absolute paradise for hikers, cyclists, horse-riding enthusiasts and even rock-climbers.

Location & Local Information

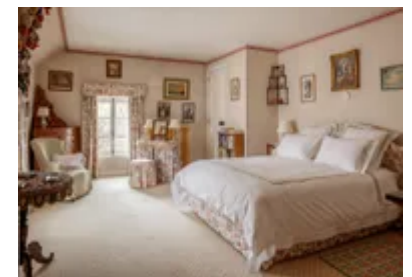

Fleur De Lupin is in a small, characterful village in the Seine-et-Marne department of the Île-de-France region, around 60km from the heart of Paris.

Less than a 5-minute drive away, buy fresh bread and a small selection of gourmet groceries from a nearby boulangerie, then head to a local farm, 7km by car, for fresh eggs, meat and seasonal organic fruit and vegetables. Indeed, you will find many excellent farm shops dotted across the countryside and local villages selling regional produce including an especially wonderful honey farm near Boutigny-sur-Essonne.

The historic village of Barbizon (4km), famed for its 19th century landscape artists, features a wealth of very charming shops, restaurants, bars and of course art galleries. Barbizon is the gateway to the Forêt de Fontainebleau, a paradise for walkers, hikers, horse-riding enthusiasts, rock-climbers and mountain bikers. There are further hikes and walking trails across the diverse landscapes of the Parc Naturel Régional du Gâtinais Français.

In the historic town of Fontainebleau (11km) is one of France's most famous royal palaces, Château de Fontainebleau, visited from tourists from across the world. History lovers also note that the beautiful gardens of Château de Fleury-en-Bière are within easy reach whilst Château de Courance (7km) is a little further, close to the picturesque villages of Dannemois and Moigny-sur-École.

The pretty town of Milly-la-Forêt (12km) is home to Jean Cocteau's former house, now a museum, as well as a wonderful Thursday morning market showcasing some of the finest seasonal products of this rich region including watercress grown locally by L'École River. The town is also known for its medicinal herbs and there are two traditional herb shops you can visit in the main square. Look out for the monthly Sunday morning brocante in Milly-la-Forêt and other towns in the area.

Golf-lovers will be delighted to know that the 18-hole UGOLF course at Golf de Cély is only 6km by car whilst Golf de Fontainebleau and Golf de Mennecy-Chevannes are just a little further, both within a 20-minute drive.
