Location & Local Information

The gateway to the nearby Kornati Islands, Zadar, is well worth a visit. Villa Aleesa is just ten kilometres from Zadar Airport, making it easily accessible. The city offers a good mix of modern amenities and historic sights.

The Old Town is sure to be the part of town you'll want to focus on. Head for the Roman Forum, alongside the Archbishop's Palace and the Church of St Donat, to see its sights. The Cathedral of St Anastasia is also worth your time, especially if you climb the bell tower, which offers a fine view across the region. If you fancy sampling the excellent local cuisine, you'll find no shortage of opportunities, but Narodni trg, the Old Town's centrepiece square, is an excellent place to get a feel for local life, too.

Back on the mainland, you have the wonders of Croatia's National Parks waiting for you. It won't take long to reach rugged Paklenica, while Plitvice Lakes is further away but an absolute must when you're in this region. Indeed, this impressive UNESCO World Heritage site is Croatia's top visitor attraction.
