

Villa De La Vue Moderne

Region: Southern Corsica    Sleeps: 14

Overview

Overlooking a picturesque bay near Porto-Vecchio on Corsica's east coast, Villa De La Vue Moderne is a design-forward abode boasting astonishing outdoor hang-out areas alongside modern comforts and dazzling ocean scenery.

The interior brings the outside in, with two gardens set in the middle of a fully air-conditioned living room that looks out to the tree-carpeted hills and valley below. Bright and spacious with tiled floors to retain coolness, there's plenty of space for large groups to linger over an aperitif – whether kicking back in one of the sitting areas or playing pool just around the corner. The bedrooms, spread across two floors exude minimalist-chic vibes with large beds and understated colour palette. But take a closer look at the suites upstairs and you'll find that both have sleek, en-suite bathrooms, sofas and private terrace access, while the master bedroom also boasts a walk-in wardrobe and jacuzzi bathtub with stunning views.

Fancy a sundowner in the pool? From the living space, step right onto the wooden deck where you can find a heated infinity-style swimming pool surrounded by terraces designed for forgetting the stress and strains of everyday life – the perfect place to sip a cocktail whilst you soak up the sunshine. There is even a roof terrace where you can watch the sun go down over the sea below and a jacuzzi that lights up with a kaleidoscope of colours at night. All your meals are to be cooked in the superbly equipped summer kitchen, boasting everything a budding chef might need to whip up a feast – be it a group barbecue party, healthy breakfasts or an intimate seafood dinner. Simply decide if you want to enjoy your meal outside straight from the plancha or in the dining room inside. For golf lovers, a putting green with a pitching green section is also installed outside.

This area is excellent for beach-combing wanderers and outdoor enthusiasts who wish to spend time enjoying the climate and nature. Close to the home there are hiking trails, forests and a wealth of pristine beaches can be found just a stone's throw away. The closest is just a short walk away and there are plenty more to visit along the coastline from almost-forgotten coves to sandy beaches offering water sports and local amenities.

Location & Local Information

Villa De La Vue Moderne is ideally nestled in a semi-rural setting surrounded by maquis and other holiday villas, super-close to Corsica's south-eastern coastline. As with the rest of the island, this area is characterised by long sandy beaches and sleepy fishing villages, making this a brilliant place to stay with friends or family.

There are many reasons why people love flocking to this sunny Mediterranean island, and its abundance of sweeping beaches and untouched nature is undoubtedly one of them. If you don't mind the walk, stroll to the shores of a nearby beach for a refreshing dip in the azure sea. There's also a restaurant with dining tables spread out at the front in the sand, as well as sun beds for hire and plenty of shade underneath the trees. A bit further away by car, Saint Cyprien is a breath-taking bay with lots of space for unwinding on a sun lounger, clear and shallow water for taking a swim as well as seasonal water sports on offer. Here you can spend the day snorkelling around the rocks and cliffs steeped deep in the water.

Less than a 30-minute drive away from the property, you can reach Porto Vecchio – a port town with a large, thriving harbour and all the shops and eateries you could need. This charming town was initially a Roman town which was later settled by the Genoese – a past that has reflected on Porto Vecchio's old town, lined with mostly medieval buildings and dominated by a 16th-century Genoese citadel which offers breath-taking views of the marina below. Many of the town's narrow lanes winding up to the hilltop fortress are lined with shops and boutiques great for buying souvenirs. In the newer part of town, you can spend the afternoon pottering around the artisan shops and picking up fresh produce at the markets before dining at one of the ambient restaurants.

A bit further away on the southern tip of the island, Bonifacio is known for its lively marina and plenty of historic monuments such as its mediaeval cliff-top citadel. In addition, the 13th-century Bastion de l'Etendard houses a small museum with exhibits on the town's history. If you fancy a scenic walk, discover the path of L'Escalier du Roi d'Aragon – a steep, narrow rock staircase made from 187 ancient steps carved into a cliff face leading down to the sea, offering unique ocean views and a chance for one-of-a-kind holiday photos. Alternatively, hop on a boat to discover the uninhabited Lavezzi Islands, a nature reserve, which have granite boulders and uninterrupted sandy beaches offering a tranquil atmosphere.
