Usually, the village is a lot quieter

and is a lovely place to stroll around, through the maze of bright white homes. Here you can visit the Church of San Cataldo which is a Baroque building and a Norman-Swabian tower hailing from the 1400s. One of the most popular things to do in Cisternino is to tuck in to local meats which are barbecued in front of you by the butchers, you can enjoy this meal while soaking in the views over the verdant valley below.
