

Masseria Tamarindo

Region: Puglia Sleeps: 12

Overview

Masseria Tamarindo is a stunning stone farmhouse offering modern facilities and traditional architecture. With accommodation in the main home and an annexe, the Masseria can comfortably sleep ten guests and two additional guests on sofa beds.

Sitting behind tall garden walls, Masseria Tamarindo offers a private escape for you and your party. You will find a spacious living room in the main building with comfy sofas, a dining room and a well-equipped kitchen where you can prepare meals and drinks.

Three bedrooms are set within the main home, while the other two are in an annexe on the other side of the pool. Each room boasts calming colour palettes, comfortable beds, vaulted stone ceilings, an en-suite bathroom, or access to a contemporary shared bathroom.

The owners have equipped guests with all the modern facilities needed for a relaxing break; the living spaces and bedrooms are air-conditioned for comfort, and you can use the TVs, Wi-Fi and laundry equipment during your stay.

All of the bedrooms and living spaces at the villa open out onto the vast paved garden, which is packed with seating and dining spaces. There is a private pool where you can cool down on a hot afternoon and even a barbecue and wood-burning oven for cooking al-fresco and dining on the covered terrace.

Although located within farmland, the nearest shops and restaurants are a mere 3km away from the home of Carpignano Salentino. For a wider range of eateries, boutique shops and seafront bars, you could also visit the historic port town of Otranto, which is 17km away or even the bustling city of Lecce which is a 32km drive away and well worth a visit.

When you wish to lounge on a sun-drenched beach, there are plenty of options within easy reach; the nearest beach is the pretty Torre Sant'Andrea which is just 11km away, or you could try Spiaggia Alimini, which is one of the finest beaches in the area with calm water and soft sand. Spiaggia Alimini also backs onto the protected Alimini Lakes, where you can walk around the lakes and through the dunes and Mediterranean scrub while looking out for the delightful migrating birds.

Location & Local Information

Lying between Puglia's sweeping coastline and the ancient city of Lecce, Masseria Tamarindo enjoys an enviable setting close to a wealth of historic attractions and quaint villages. Guests can unwind in the garden but also reach the closest village in just a few minutes.

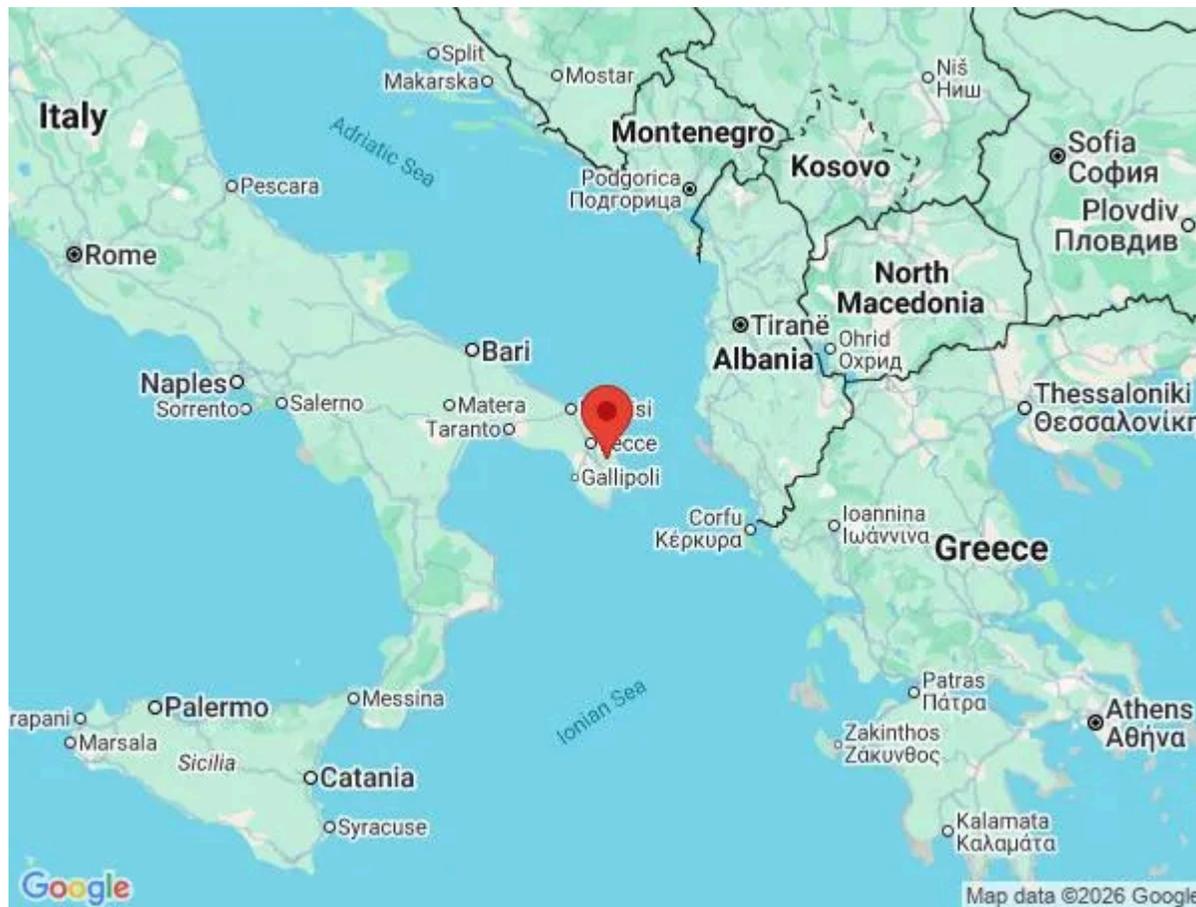

Many people are drawn to this part of Italy for the incredible beaches, the closest of which is only 11km away. Baia dei Turchi is one of the nearest beaches to the villa at 15km away and is a fantastic place to spend a day sunbathing. Framed by dazzling limestone cliffs, the sea is protected from the elements, so it has few waves, making it great for a swim. You will also find several restaurants near the bay where you could stop off for lunch. Just through the dense pine forests, you could also visit Alimini Beach, a tourist favourite.

As well as a delightful coastline, Puglia boasts rolling countryside and wide-open spaces where you can make the most of the great weather and spend some time outdoors. If you enjoy sports, within 10km of the home, you can find Acaya Golf Club, tennis courts, a range of water sports and horse riding. The landscape is also crisscrossed with scenic walking and cycling routes so that you can make memories in the natural surroundings with your group.

If you would like to go out for breakfast or grocery shopping, the nearest amenities can be discovered in Carpignano Salentino, a pretty, historic village just 3km away. Though small, the village has long been an important stopping point on the Via Francigena pilgrim trail, as you can tell from the churches, shrines and monuments scattered around the streets. The village also has a supermarket, some gift and grocery shops and a selection of restaurants, from traditional eateries to relaxed pizzerias.

You could drive 17km to Otranto, a bustling port town, for a wider range of shops and restaurants. The town was built during the Norman period, so it is steeped in history. You can learn more about the history and the countless invasions the town suffered on a visit to the fantastic pentagonal castle. Other attractions include a beautiful cathedral, the lighthouse, the clocktower and the church of San Pietro, which is decorated with Byzantine art. Some incredible beaches also line the town, while the streets and piazzas are filled with cafes, bars, restaurants and artisan shops.

Another place you should add to your itinerary is Lecce, a 32km drive away. Lecce is Puglia's most attractive city and has plenty to see and do. An excellent place to start would be booking a spot on a guided walking tour. Some of the must-see buildings in the city include; the Basilica di Santa Croce, an ornate Baroque church, the Roman Amphitheatre and the Castle of Charles V, which dominates the city's skyline. Lecce has something for everyone, from modern art galleries to Puglia's best antique market, plus a wide range of restaurants and bars where you can refuel after a busy day.
