Location & Local Information

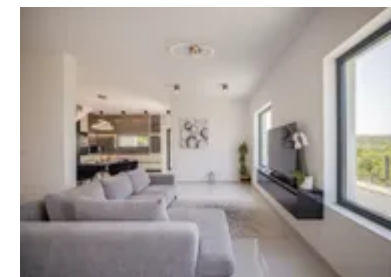

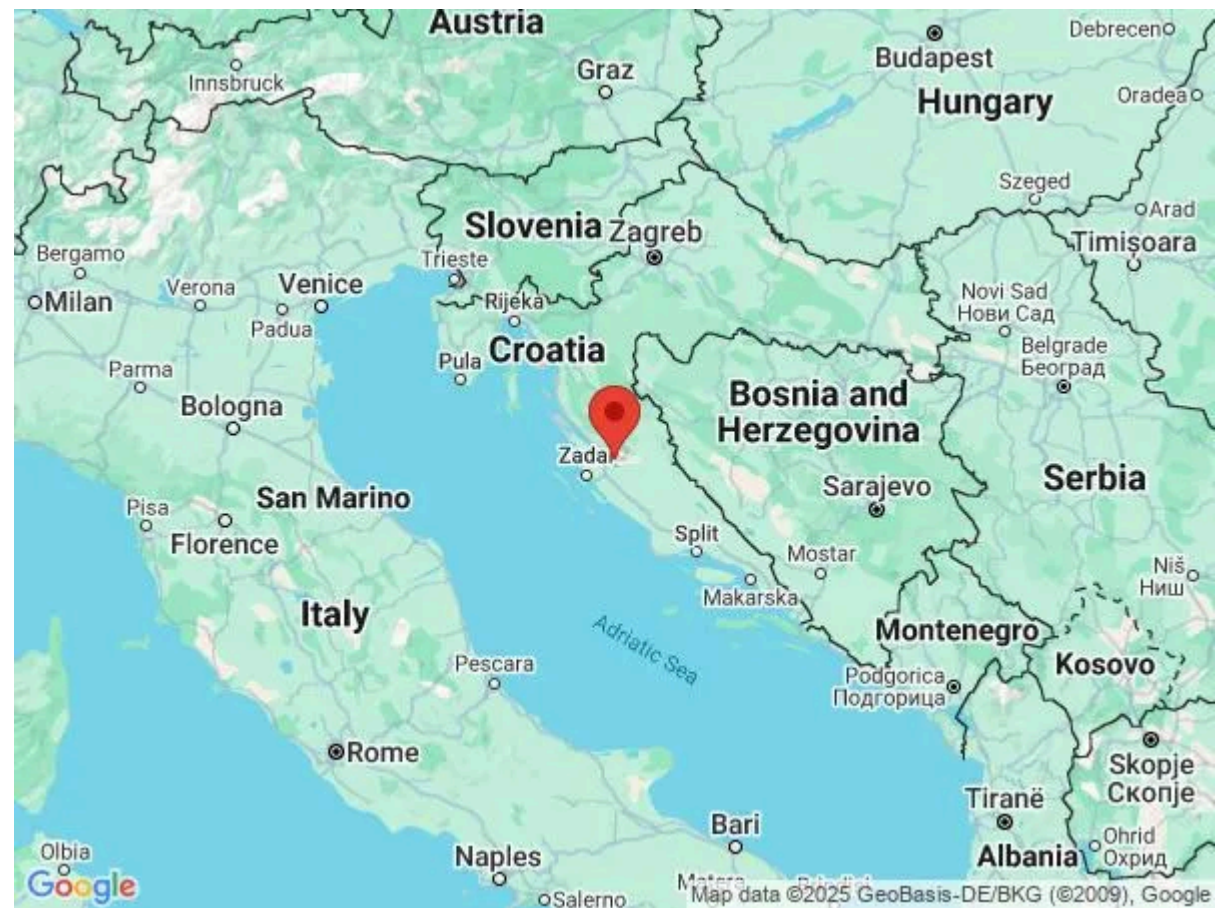

Located along the heart of the Croatia coastline, with spectacular views of the Velebit mountains and close to the city of Zadar, lies Villa Olja. Although not the highest, the Velebit Mountains are the biggest mountain range in Croatia, running parallel to the coastline. You'll be surrounded by an undisturbed natural landscape of Croatia, enjoying views of the sea, mountains and greenery. Locally, the villa is only a ten-minute walk from the beach Rovanjaska with access to the cooling Adriatic Sea.

A ten-minute drive east from the villa is Paklenica National Park, a UNESCO World Biosphere Reserve. Teaming with activities, there is so much to do in the national park, including bouldering, climbing, rafting, and mountain biking. Hiking is also a great way to see the limestone canyons filled with fauna, flora and native species.

A thirty-minute drive away is the captivating city of Zadar. Renowned for its beautiful beaches, history and creative architecture, Zadar is a great day out for the whole family to experience. The old town is filled with historic architecture stemming from the roman empire. Zadar is home to the Museum of Ancient Glass and one of the last glassblowers in the area. Enjoy a tour of the history of glass blowing in the area, then venture to the upper floor to see an in-house glass blower, transforming hot glass into souvenirs, vases and jugs.

Make your way to the seafront and experience the music of the sea. Located near the city's old town, the sea organ is an architectural sound art carved into steps on the sea's edge and includes 35 'organ' pipes. Commissioned in 2005, the sea organ was created to join the locals to the Adriatic Sea.

Travelling further into Croatia's main countryside, you'll discover one of the UNESCO world heritage sites, Plitvice Lakes. Turquoise pools surrounded by waterfalls and greenery are certainly a wonder to see. Listen to the rush of water as you travel along one of many hiking trails weaving between the water and trees.

What we love

- The views from the villa are amazing! Waking up to the mountains and sea every morning was the perfect start to the day.
- We loved spending sunny afternoons by the pool, cooling off in the water, and being together.
- One of the best times to see Zadar is sunset. Take a seat on one of the many beaches and enjoy watching the sky fade into pastel colours.
- The peace of the surrounding area was perfect. Although still near all the essentials, it was great to step away from the bustle of towns and have some space for ourselves.

What you should know...

- Zadar has fewer tourists than other cities, such as Split in Croatia, so it will be a quieter city to explore.
- The local supermarket is only one kilometre away, perfect for stopping by and picking up the essentials.
- Two of the bedrooms have double beds, while the third has a set of twin beds, great for friends or children sharing.
