

Loddon Hall and Gardens

Region: East Of England Sleeps: 14

Overview

Nestled within six acres of exquisite private gardens, Loddon Hall and Gardens is a historic gem dating back to 1478, now beautifully restored to its former grandeur. This distinguished estate, lauded by the Campaign for the Protection of Royal England, recently earned first prize for its impeccable restoration—an accolade befitting its timeless elegance and exceptional craftsmanship. A seamless blend of heritage and luxury, Loddon Hall invites discerning guests to experience refined country living at its finest.

Upon stepping through the grand entrance hall, visitors are enveloped in an atmosphere of sophistication. The ground floor unfolds into an inviting library and a sumptuous drawing room, complete with a 65" Smart TV and Netflix for effortless entertainment. To the right, the grand dining room presents a spectacular setting, where a stately table—fit for 14 or more guests—offers panoramic views of the historic barn and rolling countryside beyond. At the heart of the home, a breathtaking 40-foot country kitchen awaits. Designed for both culinary excellence and convivial gatherings, it boasts a double Aga, additional gas hobs and ovens, dual dishwashers, and generous space for preparing lavish feasts. Adjacent to the kitchen, a well-stocked pantry and a dedicated laundry room provide added convenience for guests.

Ascending to the first floor, elegance continues to unfold. Here, the enchanting music room—graced with a baby grand piano—sets the stage for intimate recitals or quiet reflection. Four of the estate's seven meticulously styled bedrooms reside on this level, each exuding historic charm with antique furnishings and opulent en-suite bathrooms. The Sir James Hobart Suite, named after the esteemed builder of Hales Hall and Attorney General to King Henry VII, boasts a regal king-size bed and a sumptuous roll-top bath. The Countess of Suffolk Suite enchants with its feature fireplace, oak floors, king-size bed, and en-suite wet room. Prudence, with its plush double bed and private shower room, offers a cozy retreat, while Dionysia delights with its brass king-size bed, elegant roll-top bath, and a secluded reading nook for moments of tranquility.

On the second floor, the charm continues. The Longe Room beckons with a resplendent super king-size bed, en-suite bathroom, and breathtaking views across the gardens and countryside. The Sir Peter Read Suite is a haven of refinement, offering a super king-size bed, roll-top bath, and a walk-in shower. Completing the collection, the Sir Francis Bacon Suite, named in honor of the famed Elizabethan nobleman, combines historical allure with modern comfort, featuring a king-size bed and a luxurious en-suite bathroom.

Beyond the walls of Loddon Hall, six acres of pristine gardens unfold like a private sanctuary. Meandering floral avenues lead to serene ponds, inviting guests to savor the tranquil beauty of the estate. Sun-drenched lawns provide the perfect setting for leisurely games of cricket or croquet, while the garden terrace, complete with outdoor dining facilities and a firepit BBQ, offers an enchanting backdrop for al fresco feasts and unforgettable evenings beneath the stars.

Whether seeking a retreat steeped in history, a setting for grand celebrations, or a peaceful countryside escape, Loddon Hall and Gardens delivers an experience of unparalleled elegance and charm.
