

Villa Nueva de Rosario

Region: Andalucia Sleeps: 7

Overview

Set within 6 acres of private land, Villa Nueva de Rosario is a beautiful detached property surrounded by agricultural terrain of olive groves and wheat fields. A private driveway leads up to the main house, which is set within a lovely walled garden, with leafy trees and vibrant planting that surround the terrace and lawn. Typical of this Spanish region, the villa features a traditional whitewashed facade, with terracotta tiled roofs.

Stepping inside, the villa is immediately inviting, with smart furnishings and characterful decor, whilst the terracotta floor offers a vibrant complement to the cool white walls. A charming living room features several arrangements of seating, offering a comfortable place to sit with a book, whilst the TV is perfect for watching a movie on cooler nights. A dining table sits to the side, whilst to the rear, the neat kitchen is fully equipped with everything you may need to prepare meals, as well as washing machine and dishwasher. To the front of the room, a second dining area sits within a large conservatory, making the perfect spot for entertaining, and several glass doors open out onto the patio, allowing in a gentle breeze whilst framing views out to the garden.

There are four bedrooms in total, with a double or twin room found on the ground floor with its own shower room next door. Upstairs, the large master bedroom has a lovely en-suite and double doors that open onto a balcony where you can sit out and enjoy uninterrupted views. A smaller room leads off from the master suite, where a single bed is perfect for younger children or babies, whilst the fourth bedroom is also on this floor, with two twin beds and access to a shared bathroom.

Outside, the terrace wraps around the house, offering several different seating areas to enjoy throughout the day. Sit out with a coffee to enjoy the morning sun, or escape the midday heat and find a spot to sit with a book or enjoy a siesta. A fantastic built-in barbecue area is great for al fresco dining, and you can make the most of the warm evenings and sit out over leisurely dinners beneath the stars. A large garden extends away from the villa with a well-maintained grass lawn surrounded by vibrant flowers and planting. To the far end, a curved swimming pool behind a fence is perfect for cooling off, and several sun loungers invite you to recline beneath the blue skies and soak up the peaceful setting.

Location & Local Information

Surrounded by the undulating Andalusian landscape and distant mountains, Villa Nueva de Rosario enjoys a wonderful setting where you can escape for a relaxing break and enjoy complete privacy whilst soaking up the peaceful surroundings. For local shops and amenities, there are several rural villages just a short drive away, and you can enjoy the slow pace of pueblo life and friendly atmosphere.

With two rivers running through its centre, Villanueva del Trabuco is a traditional agricultural settlement which can be reached in less than 15 minutes by car. Wander the streets of the older quarter to see the traditional whitewashed houses adorned with vibrant flowers and terracotta window boxes, or visit the Plaza de Prado for a more social atmosphere, where you will find the town hall and renowned 'Fuente de los tres Caños' (the fountain said to never dry up). There are several restaurants where you can enjoy freshly made dishes and sample home-cooked specialities such as ajoblanco (a wonderful gazpacho made with almonds and garlic). Nearby, the lovely Rosario is another charming spot, surrounded by wheat fields and olive groves. Sheltered in the foothills, the village is a popular starting point for hill walking or mountain bikers, and you can head up into the mountains before returning for a well-earned lunch or delicious piece of tortas de bizcocho, a sponge cake of almonds and olive oil.

For keen walkers, the surrounding area has plenty of trails to explore, and the beautiful Montes de Málaga natural park boasts a diverse landscape of rivers, rock formations, and a magnificent pine forest that plays host to a huge array of wildlife. You can also visit the nearby El Torcal park to see the usual limestone rock formations and interesting flora and fauna or take a challenging route up from the village of Concepcion to reach the highest viewing point at 1339m, where you will be rewarded with a spectacular vista across to the park and even as far as the North African coastline.

Whilst surrounded by countryside, the golden beaches of Malaga are just 45 minutes away, making it easy to spend the day beside the sea. Enjoy a relaxing day on the sand or head into the vibrant city to see its historic Alcazaba or wander along the lively streets lined with shops and restaurants. Marbella is also just over an hour's drive, whilst the main roads nearby offer good access to the cultural cities of Granada, Cordoba and Sevilla.
