

Maison Des Livres

Region: Rhone-Alpes Sleeps: 12

Overview

This is a fun and colourful home within walking distance to a small village just a short drive from the lovely city of Montélimar in the Rhône-Alpes.

Recently refurbished with bright and modern interiors, this family home offers five comfy bedrooms across three storeys and a separate annexe. It's a house full of warmth and character with contemporary furnishings, art adorning the walls and lots of interesting features and designs. The high ceilings bring light and space into this architecturally fascinating home.

The lower level living space spills out to a wonderful terrace where the family can meet to chat, play games and enjoy meals together. The lovely gardens offer space to kick around a ball, let off steam on the trampoline or simply laze in the sun. Cool off in the glorious heated swimming pool before preparing a barbecue in the charming summer kitchen.

After exploring this fascinating region, return to your cheerful home where you can relax in lovely surroundings in this delightful part of southern France.

Location & Local Information

On the edge of a village, it's only a short stroll to the bakery and a few local shops plus a restaurant open for lunch and sometimes dinner. A larger supermarket can be found in under ten minutes by car or head towards Montélimar (14km) for further town facilities.

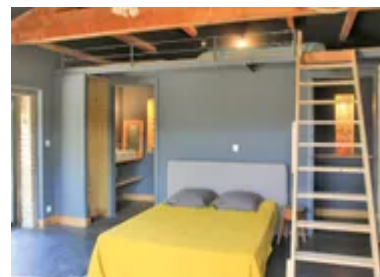

This is the Drôme department part of the Rhône-Alpes region of France, a delightful area which is less discovered but equally as beautiful as neighbouring Provence. You'll come across olive groves, lavender fields and vineyards. Medieval villages are scattered across the countryside with castles, beautiful churches and weekly markets to discover.

The nearest town is Montélimar (14km), famous for its nougat where you can visit the factories and see how it is made. It's a picturesque town where you can admire the grand mansions and little town squares and enjoy a coffee in the attractive tree-lined boulevards. There's also a small animal park in the town's Jardin Public, a pleasant place to stroll around at any time of year.

Further south, Nyons (40km) is surrounded by green hills, orchards and olive groves and is well known for its black olives as well as its historical heritage. Gourmet lovers should also head towards Saint-Paul-Trois-Châteaux (36km), the home of black truffles so renowned in this area. Of course wine-lovers can discover some of the amazing vineyards across this part of the Cote du Rhone wine region. The cathedral cellar at Saint-Restitut makes a particularly interesting stop for wine connoisseurs.

If you wish to explore some nearby cities then drive north to Valence (50km), a listed city of art and history with a beautiful historic centre and some lovely walks along the many canals. Heading south over the border to Provence, Avignon (90km) is also possible within a day trip.

What we love

- This traditional house is full of colour and warmth making it a wonderful holiday home
- There is lots of terrace space where you can relax, drink local wine or catch up with friends
- Nearby Montélimar is the home of nougat and you can visit factories to see how it's made. Don't miss the wonderful sweet museum 'Palais des Bonbons et du Nougat'
- The Drôme department is the land of lavender. You can also discover wonderful olive groves and vineyards; no wonder it's comparable to Provence without the crowds
