This popular beach, just 8 kilometres south of Antiparos town, stands as the largest on the island, drawing in sunseekers with its organised amenities—sunbeds and shade umbrellas available for those who prefer a perfect blend of sun and shade.

Soros Beach is a spectacle of nature's beauty, boasting a wide expanse of clean sandy shores adorned with fine pebbles and framed by the deep, crystalline waters of the Aegean. While the beach may not be ideal for families with young children due to its sudden depth and rocky areas near the shoreline, it provides a haven for those seeking a refreshing dip in the sea. Two charming taverns nearby beckon with promises of local delicacies, freshly caught fish, and refreshing beverages, creating a perfect retreat for beachside indulgence.

For those seeking a more secluded escape, venture south of Soros Beach to uncover hidden coves and sandy beaches, offering a touch of privacy amid the natural beauty of Antiparos Island.

What we love

- We loved the spacious, Rustic interior of Villa Marita
- It was wonderful to have direct access to the beach
- The separate guest house made it easy to accommodate the whole group
- You don't get private beaches in Greece, but this is so close to the beach in a secluded bay you almost have one.
- VillaTh Marita has a chapel and would be perfect for weddings
- Villa Marita is an ideal accommodation choice for those hosting parties or events

What you should know...

- There is a gate at the end of the property that accesses the beach, which is essentially private but other uses may access by boat as beaches in Greece cannot be privately owned.
- The private pool is unfenced with a deck surround that could get slippery when wet, so young children will need to be well-supervised when playing in the vicinity
- Laundry facilities are available on-site at an additional charge
