Location & Local Information

Astypalaia, the westernmost island of the Dodecanese, embodies classic Greek charm with its whitewashed villages, azure waters, and sunlit beaches. The island is divided into two sections, linked by a narrow isthmus that gives rise to its nickname, "The Butterfly Isle." Milano Suite enjoys a prime position on the western side (Mesa Nisi), in the island's capital, Astypalea.

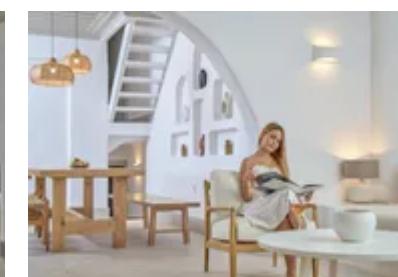

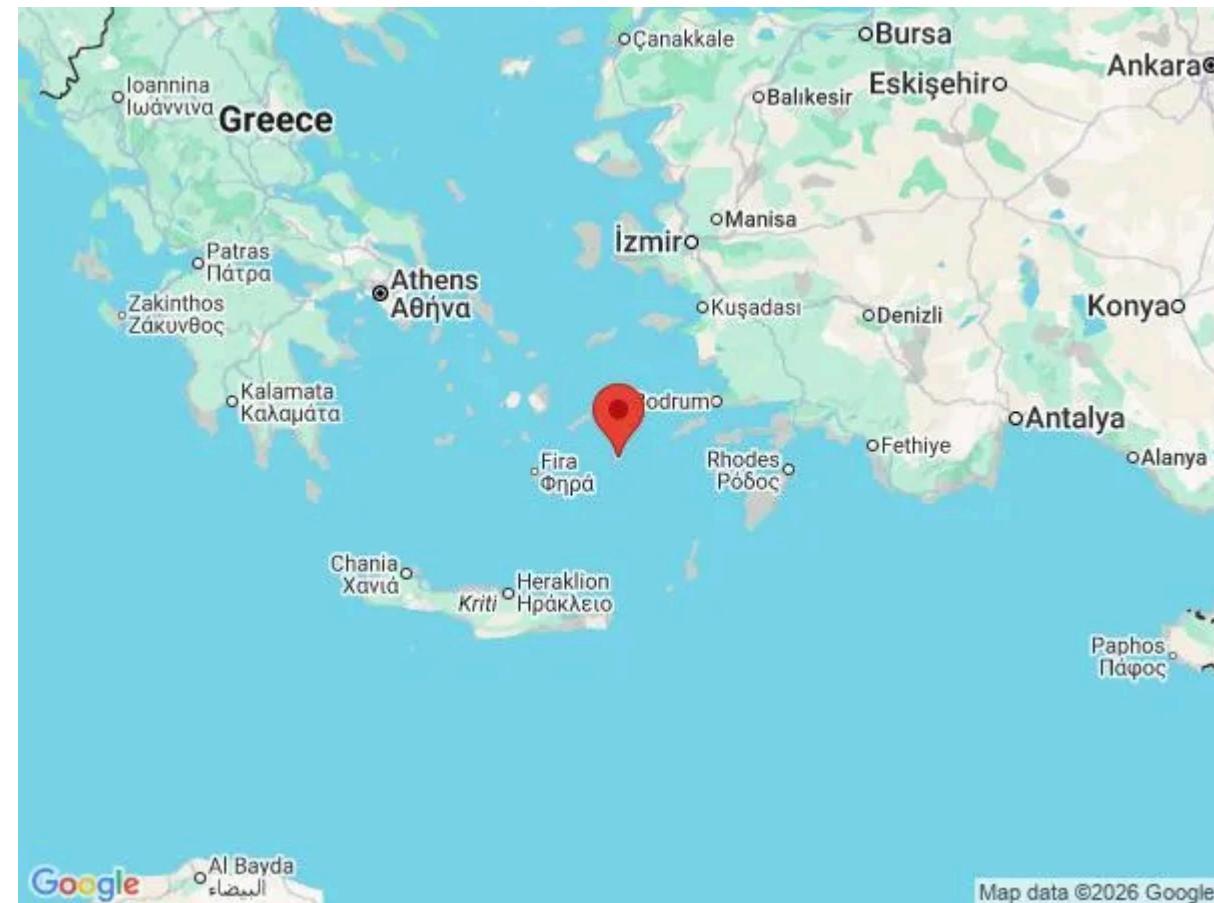

Guests will find all essentials for a relaxing stay, including bars, restaurants, cafés, supermarkets, museums, beaches, and inviting swimming spots.

Astypalea town is among the most picturesque in the Aegean, set on a promontory that forms two scenic bays. Dominating the skyline is the 13th-century Astypalea Castle, built by Venetian nobleman John Querini as protection against pirate raids. Along the path to the castle, eight traditional windmills stand in a striking row, uniquely designed with rotating roofs as well as sails.

The Archaeological Museum of Astypalaia presents a fascinating collection of artefacts spanning from the Prehistoric era to the Middle Ages. For nature enthusiasts, Drakos Cave is a captivating site, adorned with colourful stalactites and stalagmites and steeped in legend as a hiding place for pirate treasure.

What we love

- The villa's terraces are as delightful as they are dazzling. Dine with friends and family in the coolly sunken al fresco dining setting, lay back on the sunbed with a glass of local wine, or take a plunge in the pool, all with the background of castle and sea to serenade you.
- Milano Suite's unique cave room ensures the epitome of rejuvenation. With a heated plunge pool and jacuzzi, this is a space that will replenish your resources.
- Situated on the Butterfly of the Aegean, Astypalaia is one of Greece's secret gems - a breathtakingly beautiful island that still benefits from being relatively untouristed. Thankfully that doesn't mean there's a lack of amazing dining experiences, activities, and attractions.

What you should know...

- The plunge pool is unfenced so be aware of children at play.
