

Maison Beau Pic Vert

Region: Dordogne Sleeps: 8

Overview

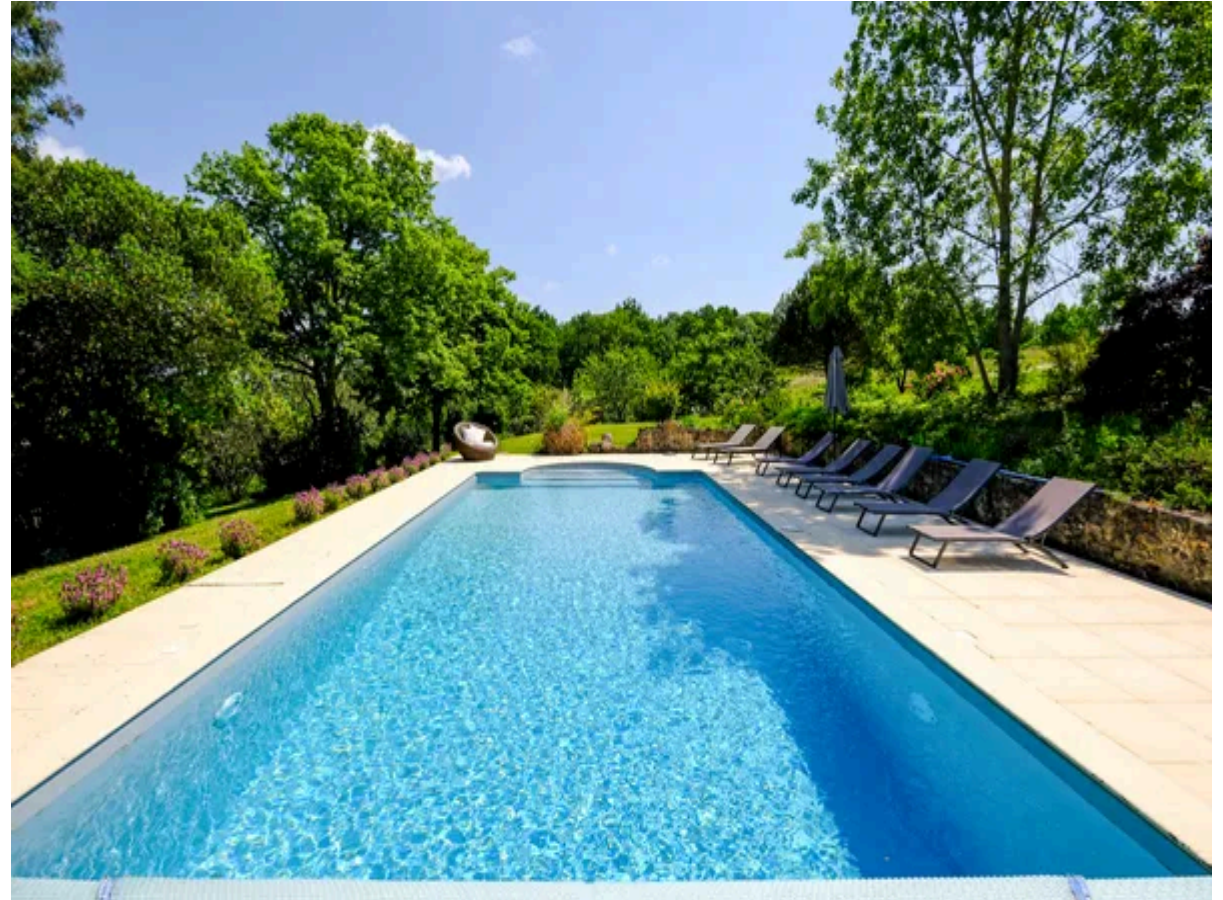

In the Lot-et-Garonne, around 20 minutes south of the Dordogne River, this beautifully restored farmhouse enjoys spectacular views of vineyards and meadows from its idyllic setting on top of the valley just a short drive from Monségur and Duras.

An elegant French getaway, Maison Beau Pic Vert welcomes a family or group of friends looking to experience relaxation and charm close to atmospheric markets, wineries and historic bastide towns. With so many terraces around the house, you can be enjoying your morning coffee overlooking the orchard followed by an al-fresco evening feast as the sun sets over the neighbouring vineyards. Meanwhile, the poolside terrace is surrounded by nature with summer roses, lavender and shady trees.

Guests can kick back in the large living room with its wood-burning stove for cooler months or you may prefer the TV lounge with Freesat English channels and a PlayStation. Then there's the office (or it could be used as a third lounge) and of course the gorgeous kitchen-diner with its Lacanche range, American fridge-freezer, various coffee makers and doors opening out to the wrap-around balcony and dining terrace.

You can choose from four inviting bedrooms, all with air-conditioning and their own ensuite or private bathroom. We especially love the master bedroom with its queen-size double, roll top bath and garden view alongside the connecting mezzanine king-size double which can also be made up as a twin. A pretty twin bedroom and ground-floor double complete the house, allowing up to 8 guests to sleep peacefully here.

The local village mayor is also a chef who can come to prepare gastronomic French feasts to be served on the terrace – book her well in advance. Her husband is a wine and local history expert who can pair some of the region's fine wines to accompany your food. Indeed, wine-lovers note that the vineyards of Duras, Saint-Émilion and Bergerac are all within easy reach.

Characterful Monségur hosts a weekly market on a Friday morning alongside night markets in the height of the summer and an annual jazz festival in early July. Look out for more glorious markets in nearby Duras and spend Saturday morning soaking up the ambience of Sainte-Foy-la-Grande, home to one of the region's largest and most beautiful markets near the banks of the Dordogne.

Elsewhere, canoe or kayak along the Dordogne, partake in tree-top adventures and zip lines in nearby woods and discover magnificent walking and cycling trails, a wonderful way to appreciate the scenery of south-western France.

Location & Local Information

In the Lot-et-Garonne, close to the Gironde border, this beautiful house is set in open countryside surrounded by meadows and vineyards with forest and valley views, only 6km from Monségur. If flying, arrive via Bergerac or Bordeaux Airports or take the high-speed train from Paris to Bordeaux, then onwards to La Réole (20km).

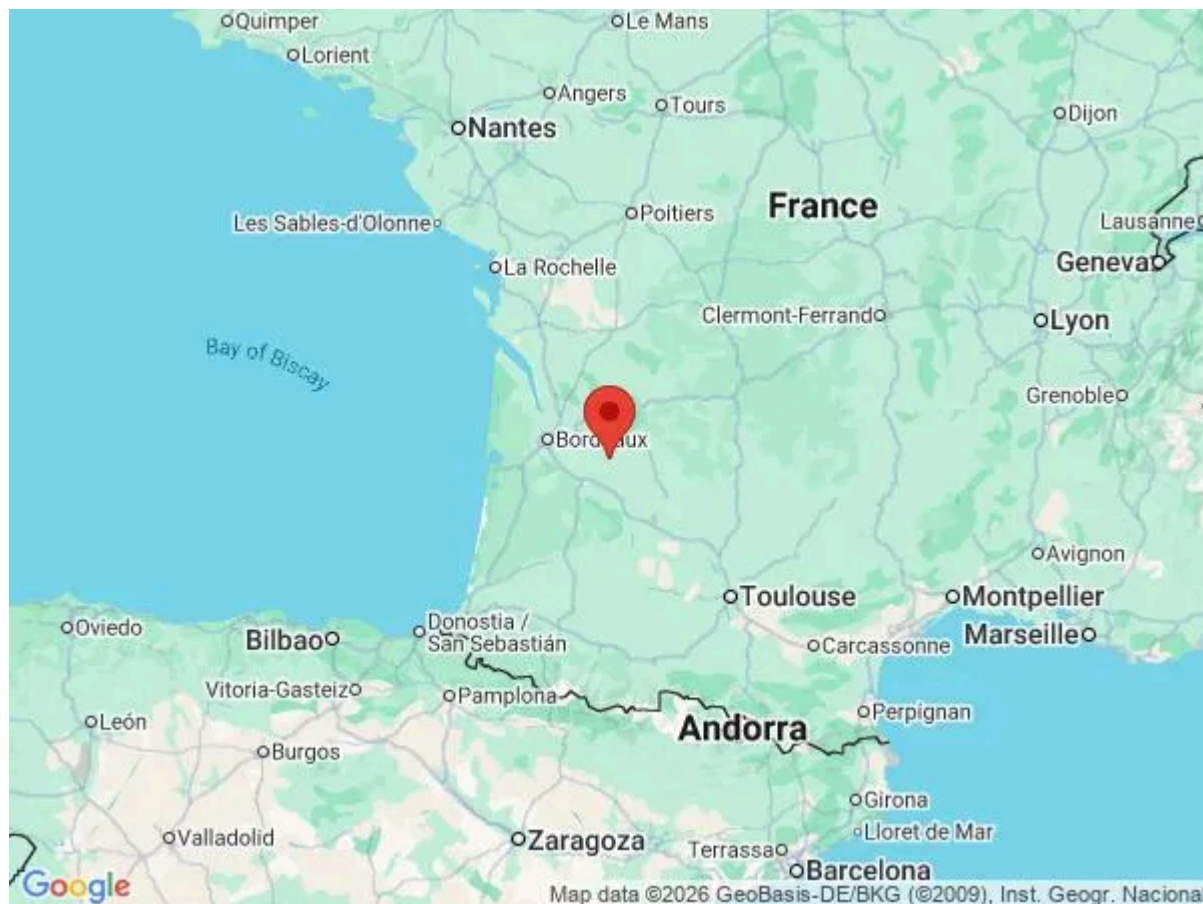

There is a small village with a café/shop within a 15-minute walk but otherwise a car is essential to be able to reach the shops and supermarkets of Monségur (6km) and Duras (8km). The Dordogne River is only a 20-minute drive away with canoeing and kayaking opportunities near Pessac-sur-Dordogne (20km) and Sainte-Foy-la-Grande (24km).

The small bastide town of Monségur is home to restaurants and shops including an excellent boulangerie. Don't miss its weekly market that takes place on the central square on a Friday morning alongside an atmospheric night market in the height of the summer. In early July the town hosts an annual jazz festival, a great highlight of the year.

Medieval Duras is another charming town to explore, loved for its château with amazing views. Alongside restaurants, wine bars and a range of shops, its Monday morning market showcases a wealth of local produce. Wine-lovers will appreciate the many vineyards and wineries around Duras – wine tastings can be arranged.

Further afield, highlights of the region include Saint-Émilion (43km) and its vineyards, now classified as a UNESCO World Heritage site, and the handsome riverside town of Bergerac (47km), both wonderful days out. Other medieval bastide towns include Eymet and Villereal whilst Monpazier and Monflanquin, just over an hour away, are classified as two of France's 'Plus Beaux Villages'.

Throughout the summer, look out for festivities, night markets and a wealth of activities from tree-top adventures just a short drive away to summer reenactments of the Battle of Castillon just outside the riverside Castillon-la-Bataille (28km).

For another fantastic day out, you could even spend time in the great city of Bordeaux (72km) or venture further west towards Arcachon Bay (136km) and the beaches north of Cap Ferret (135km).
