

Villa Neroli

Region: Southern Corsica Sleeps: 12

Overview

We are privileged to be able to feature this stunning Corsican villa near Bonifacio with vast terraces, a beautiful swimming pool and a mini golf course. With 180 degree views of wild maquis and verdant valleys, Villa Neroli enjoys a private setting within an upmarket domaine and is only 1.5km from a picturesque bay with turquoise water.

There's certainly a 'wow factor' about this contemporary two-storey villa, yet it also exudes a sense of Corsican charm with its use of natural stone, beautiful wood decking and cascading Mediterranean grounds.

Step into the main upper level and be impressed by the luxuriously furnished living and dining space with designer pieces, unique fittings, objets d'art, books and sliding windows framing the landscapes so typical of southern Corsica. As you would expect, the kitchen features high-end appliances (Miele, Gaggenau etc) and there is a stylish bar with a wine fridge, beer tap and coffee machine. Spend hours on the huge upper terrace admiring the natural scenery.

The en suite master bedroom is on the upper floor with its king-size bed, TV and Sonos Arc sound bar. A lift or external stairs take you down to the other four bedrooms, each one with a queen-size bed, en suite bathroom and doors sliding open to the poolside or garden terrace. The bedrooms are well sized and comfortable – there is space for an additional bed in two of the lower-floor doubles.

Back outside, the heated swimming pool is surrounded by an attractive terrace alongside olive trees, cacti, agapanthuses and other endemic plants. Discover the picture-perfect summer kitchen, barbecue and dining area set amongst the terraced garden, and the 5-hole mini golf course with putting green and bunker. There's even a hidden hot tub in the grounds and a traditional pétanque court.

Once you leave the domaine, follow the country road down to a picturesque bay and little marina where boat tours depart – there's also a good range of watersports along this coastline. Meanwhile, play tennis and golf at the prestigious Golf de Spérone, around a 15-minute drive away.

Bonifacio will captivate you in every way, just 8km by car. Stroll along its marina, where boat tours depart, and climb the many steps up to the medieval citadel with its warren of narrow lanes, inviting shops and characterful restaurants. As you explore, capture glimpses of the sea below.

Ride horses along the coast or limestone cliffs, follow old walking trails through the wild maquis, come across other idyllic beaches for snorkeling, scuba-diving and watersports and venture further afield to the likes of Porto Vecchio or Sartène, all wonderful ways to experience the beauty and charm of southern Corsica.

Location & Local Information

Villa Neroli is located in the south of Corsica, less than a 10-minute drive to the much-loved town of Bonifacio. Not overlooked and enjoying 180-degree views of natural landscapes, the villa is set within a private Santa Manza domaine of just twelve other residences. Here the houses are surrounded by the aromas of wild maquis with distant valley vistas.

Following the country road down to the coast, after 1.5km you will reach a little hamlet and marina, pizzeria (seasonal opening) and the edge of a picturesque bay. Various summer boat excursions depart from the marina and there is a range of watersports dotted along the bay. Continue further along the bay to a couple of beachside restaurants. In the other direction, around 3.5km away, is a picturesque sheltered bay popular with windsurfers.

Bonifacio is 8km by car – perhaps start off by the marina and watch yachts sail by from a café terrace or restaurant serving local seafood. Then climb up to Bonifacio's incredible citadel and explore its medieval lanes perched above a limestone promontory. The citadel is home to charming shops, wine-bars and restaurants serving delicious Corsican fare. Check opening times of L'Escalier du Roy d'Aragon, the steep and historic stairs leading down towards the sea.

Ferries depart Bonifacio's marina to the remote Lavezzi Islands, part of the Bouches de Bonifacio Nature Reserve, or take a boat excursion to admire Bonifacio's limestone cliffs and sea caves from afar. It goes without saying that this corner of the island is fantastic for snorkelling and scuba-diving.

Back on dry land, play golf or tennis at the prestigious Golf de Spérone (10km) and ride horses through the countryside, along the beach or even by the cliffs. There are many wonderful walking trails whether following the dramatic cliff paths from the citadel, or hiking along footpaths through the wild landscapes of maquis with idyllic vistas of the sea. The old Strada Vecia trail, for example, dates back centuries and passes a lighthouse and pretty beaches.
