

Villa Le Sabine

Region: Lazio Sleeps: 16

Overview

Hidden deep within the rolling Sabina countryside, just 30km from the eternal city of Rome, Villa Le Sabine is a timeless retreat wrapped in olive groves, wheat fields, and the elegant scent of rosemary and lavender. Once the private estate of a noble family and now lovingly transformed by architect Enrico Carlo Saraceni, this enchanting farmhouse is set on 70 hectares of pristine land, formerly dedicated to breeding polo horses and producing the prized "Sabina" olive oil.

At the heart of the property lies the main villa, adorned with terracotta floors, rustic beams, and graceful contemporary-country interiors. Here, you'll find three stylish suites upstairs, while the ground floor opens to a warm, characterful sitting room, kitchen, and dining space. Outside, a pergola-cloaked portico offers the perfect setting for long al fresco meals. Nearby, two beautifully appointed guest houses and a charming two-apartment cottage provide additional privacy for groups.

The highlight? A glittering infinity pool filled with pure Nepi spring water, framed by spectacular views of Mount Soratte. With an outdoor pizza oven, barbecue grill, table tennis, and horses grazing in the distance, Villa Le Sabine is where rural beauty and quiet sophistication come together effortlessly.

Location & Local Information

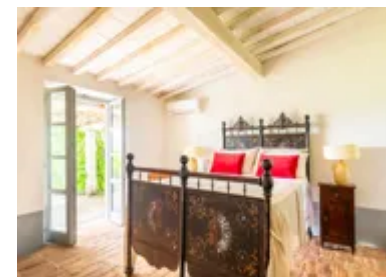

Villa Le Sabine sits serenely in the heart of the Lazio countryside, just an hour from Rome yet worlds away from its bustling pace. The surrounding region is known for its unspoilt landscapes, dotted with sleepy villages, olive farms, and vineyards, where life slows to the rhythm of the seasons. This area, Sabina, is steeped in tradition and celebrated for producing some of Italy's finest olive oil.

From the villa, you can venture out to explore Etruscan ruins, medieval hamlets, or the regional delicacies of local markets. Outdoor lovers will find hiking trails, riding routes, and plenty of scenic drives. Historic towns like Orvieto, Todi, Viterbo, and Spoleto are all within reach for enriching day trips.

Despite its countryside setting, amenities are within easy reach. Local trattorias, bakeries, and shops can be found in nearby villages, while a direct train line offers swift access to Rome for city adventures, culture, and fine dining.

What we love

- The infinity pool is filled with fresh Nepi spring water and panoramic views over Mount Soratte.
- Private guest houses and suites offer flexibility for multigenerational stays or retreats.
- The scent of herbs, old stone walls, and sunsets from the portico make every evening special.
- A professional pizza oven, outdoor grill, and shaded dining areas invite unforgettable al fresco meals.

What you should know...

- Absolute privacy surrounded by nothing but green fields and open countryside.
- The house is in a country home immersed between fields, Olive Trees, and Polo Ponys.
- The housing complex was designed and cured by an Italian leading architect: Enrico Carlo Saraceni.
- A car is highly recommended given the rural location of this property.
