Overview

Beneath a canopy of wisteria, Mas De La Glycine unfolds as a soulful countryside home where time seems to slow and Provençal charm is on full display. Pretty terraces spill onto a vast, green garden where cicadas sing in the evening sun. Here, days are best spent moving between sun loungers and the shimmering waters of the swimming pool, pausing only for a chilled drink or a leisurely lunch beneath the pergola.

Inside, the character of the house reveals itself in gentle layers, from the welcoming entrance hall to the generous farmhouse kitchen where family-style dining comes naturally. There's a sense of ease and generosity in every room, with two relaxed living areas, a light-filled dining room and five bedrooms offering flexibility and space. Cool terracotta floors, warm wooden beams and aged stone details speak to the home's heritage, while modern touches such as air-conditioning ensure an effortless stay.

Across both floors, the layout caters beautifully to family life. There are two queen-size double bedrooms on the ground floor, both of which can be made up as twins. Upstairs, a king-size double awaits, alongside a charming children's bedroom with bunk-beds. Finally, the master en suite bedroom offers a private terrace for moments of peace and beautiful views.

Just a short drive from Maussane-les-Alpilles and Mouriès, the house enjoys a privileged position amid olive groves and rolling countryside. Maussane's village charm with its shaded square, bakery aromas and café culture, offers guests a taste of local life within easy reach.

Mas De La Glycine invites you to savour the season at your own pace, whether splashing by the pool, cooking outdoors in the pool house kitchen, or simply watching light shift across the garden as evening falls. It's a place for slow mornings, long afternoons and memorable moments under the Provençal sky.
