Villa Orologio

Region: Amalfi Coast Sleeps: 12

Overview

As you step into Villa Orologio, light dances across glossy marble floors and the scent of citrus lingers on the sea breeze drifting through open terrace doors. Spread across two floors and a detached annexe, this airy Amalfi Coast villa is all about space, comfort and Mediterranean calm.

Inside, six stylish bedrooms welcome you with fresh linens and soft-toned interiors, each complete with a sleek en-suite bathroom and natural light pouring through well-placed windows. The kitchen, modern and thoughtfully equipped, opens out to a generous living area where you can dine, unwind or simply watch the light shift over the coastline.

Outdoors, the villa's terraces and 3000 square metres of garden offer a natural stage for sunrise breakfasts and sunset aperitivi. The swimming pool, complete with a sun-soaked solarium, invites hours of indulgent relaxation. Whether stretched out on a lounger or gathered beneath the pergola with a glass of local wine, the view over Sorrento's rolling hills to the Tyrrhenian Sea is nothing short of mesmerising.

Just a ten-minute stroll from the village of Sant'Agata sui Due Golfi, Villa Orologio is perfectly placed for discovering the charms of the Amalfi Coast while enjoying total privacy and personalised service.

Location & Local Information

Villa Orologio sits just above the charming village of Sant'Agata sui Due Golfi, where winding lanes, family-run trattorias and colourful local markets create a timeless, authentic atmosphere. The villa's elevated position offers sweeping views of both the Gulf of Naples and the Gulf of Salerno, hence the village's name. It's a peaceful spot, but never far from the action.

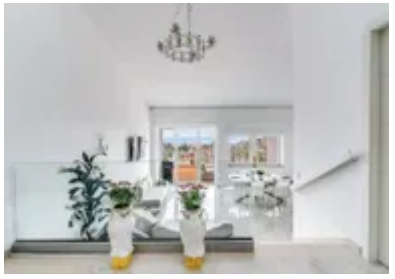

From the villa, guests can walk into town to enjoy fresh pastries from the local pasticceria or a slow lunch on a sun-drenched terrace. A short drive brings you to the glamorous streets of Sorrento or the hilltop trails of the Massa Lubrense peninsula. Nearby attractions include boat trips to Capri, hikes to ancient monasteries, and the iconic clifftop drives of the Amalfi Coast. This is an area rich in flavours, views and history, and Villa Orologio places you at the centre of it all.

What we love

- Panoramic sea and countryside views from expansive terraces and the private pool!
- Bright, contemporary interiors designed for both socialising and relaxation.
- This villa is adjacent to Villa Olimpia (https://www.oliverstravels.com/italy/amalfi-coast/sorrento/villa-olimpia/) and can be rented together!

What you should know...

- One of the bedrooms is located in a separate annexe, ideal for those seeking extra privacy.
- Due to the hillside location, some outdoor areas are accessed via steps and may not suit guests with mobility concerns.
- While the villa is only a short distance from the local town and restaurants please note the road has not been pedestrianised and guests may prefer renting a vehicle to get around.
