La Petite Maison Generille

Region: Dordogne Sleeps: 4

Overview

Beside the garden's olive trees and the open Dordogne countryside, La Petite Maison Générille offers a charming bolthole where comfort and authenticity blend seamlessly. This pretty cottage stands detached within a large garden, sharing the grounds with a neighbouring rental and the owners' residence, yet maintaining a sense of privacy with its gorgeous outdoor terrace.

Inside, exposed beams and warm tones create a welcoming, homely feel. The open-plan living area features a well-equipped kitchen, wood-burning stove and access to your very own shaded terrace that invites slow al fresco meals. Upstairs via the spiral staircase, two double bedrooms and a bathroom provide restful spaces for couples or a small family.

Outside, the expansive garden opens onto fields and woodland, while the shared 16m heated swimming pool sits ready for a refreshing dip. Days here might include a friendly game of badminton, a round of darts by your terrace or simply relaxing in the dappled shade. As evening falls, fire up the barbecue and enjoy dinner as the sky turns pink above the countryside.

Perfectly placed for discovering the region, the cottage lies around a 10-minute drive from Beynac-et-Cazenac, one of the Dordogne's most enchanting riverside villages. Here, you'll find cafés, restaurants and boat trips for drifting along the river's calm waters. Domme, perched high above the valley, is just a little further and offers breathtaking views, especially magical when the morning mist lifts to reveal a scattering of colourful hot-air balloons. Sarlat-la-Canéda, a jewel of medieval architecture and bustling market life, is also within easy reach.

For those in search of culture and countryside charm, La Petite Maison Générille promises a relaxing escape in the heart of one of France's most picturesque regions.
