Location & Local Information

Gouvia is a coastal village on the east side of Corfu, around eight kilometres north of Corfu Town. Its well-connected location makes it an ideal base for exploring the island, while still offering everything needed for a relaxed, self-contained stay. Once a Venetian naval base, its sheltered bay served as a strategic harbour. Remnants of the old Venetian Arsenal still stand today, offering a striking glimpse into its maritime heritage.

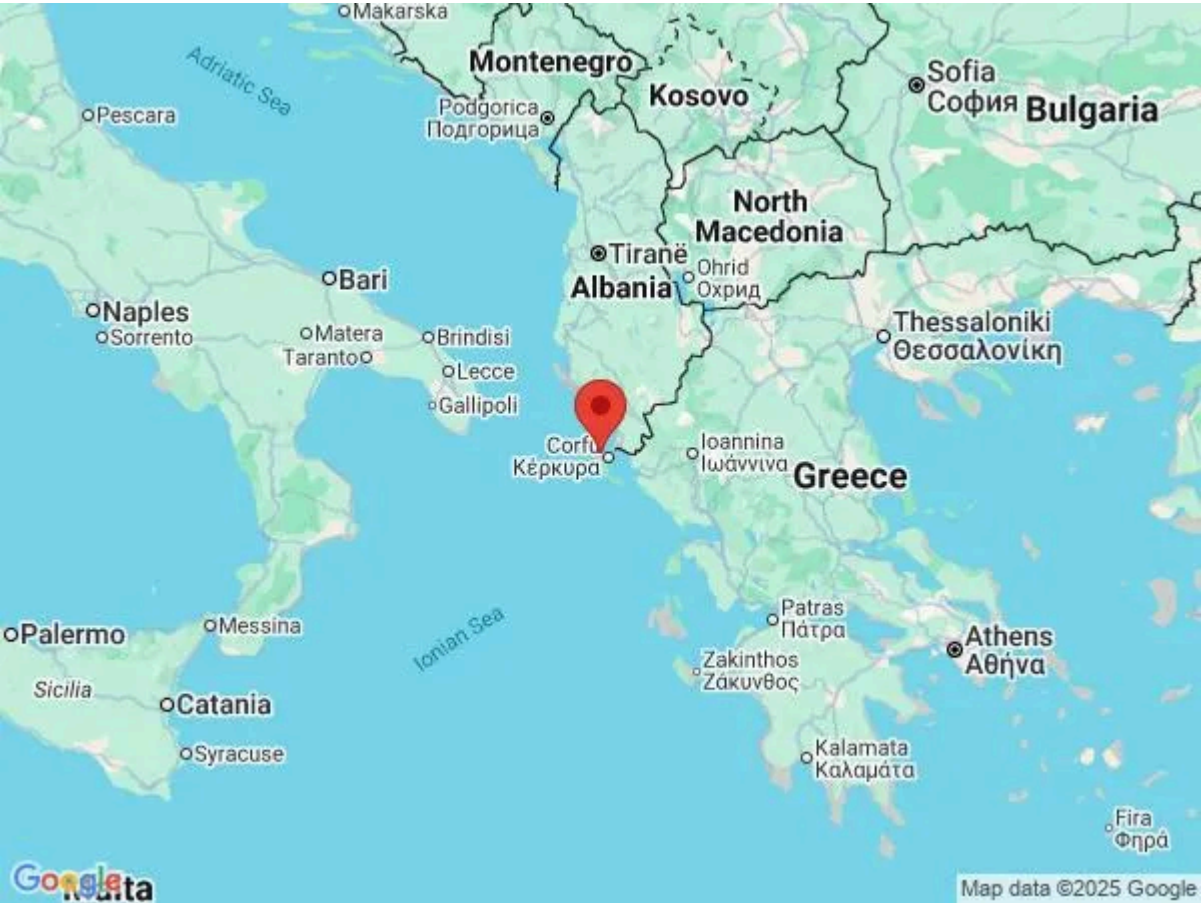

Now a laid-back yet vibrant resort, Gouvia appeals to a range of travellers. Gouvia Marina, one of the largest in the Ionian, brings a cosmopolitan feel, with luxury yachts, waterfront cafés, and sea-facing restaurants. Despite its popularity, the village retains a friendly, local atmosphere, ideal for families, couples, and groups seeking proximity to Corfu Town without the crowds.

The main beach lies in a calm, shallow bay, perfect for swimming and water sports. A mix of sand and pebbles, it is well-equipped with sunbeds and umbrellas for a comfortable day by the sea. A short walk leads to the atmospheric ruins of the Venetian shipyard, an evocative spot for exploring and photography. As evening falls, the marina comes alive with tavernas and bars serving both Greek and international cuisine.

Combining accessibility, charm, and excellent facilities, Gouvia offers a well-rounded Corfiot experience.
