

Fairfax Hall

Region: The North East Sleeps: 20

Overview

Set within 2,500 acres of meadows, woodland and Yorkshire hills, Fairfax Hall is a reimagined country estate where every detail tells a story of heritage, craftsmanship and contemporary elegance. Originally conceived in the 18th century by an esteemed architect of the time, this Grade I listed Georgian mansion has been carefully restored and thoughtfully redefined to offer a new kind of rural luxury, rooted in history yet designed for modern celebration.

Step through the grand entrance and into a world that feels both historic and entirely your own. The home's expansive living spaces invite you to take over exclusively, with magnificent reception rooms, a showstopping spiral staircase and a hand-crafted kitchen ready to host unforgettable dinners. Upstairs, each of the 10 ensuite bedrooms has been individually styled, blending original Georgian features with calming, nature-led design and indulgent touches like rain showers, roll-top baths and super king-size beds. For larger parties, additional accommodation is on request.

Every inch of Fairfax Hall reflects a commitment to beauty and sustainability. A muted, earthy palette and natural materials echo the moorland beyond, with contemporary handmade lighting and bespoke furnishings softening the grandeur of the original interiors. Whether gathered around the 20-seater oak dining table, enjoying cocktails at the private bar or listening to the baby grand piano drift through the hall, soak up this unique English experience.

Just moments from the upmarket town of Ilkley and only 26km from Leeds, Fairfax Hall feels both wonderfully remote and effortlessly accessible. Surrounded by Yorkshire countryside and a deer-dotted reserve with ancient woodland and large lake, it's a setting that inspires calm, connection and celebration.

Whether you're planning a weekend getaway, a wedding or an extraordinary gathering, Fairfax Hall offers a high-end country house experience in beautiful rural surroundings.

Location & Local Information

Fairfax Hall offers guests an incredible retreat on the edge of the Yorkshire Dales, amidst the rolling landscapes of West Yorkshire. Located within a 2,500-acre reserve, the estate is a haven of unspoilt beauty, home to a rich tapestry of wildflower meadows, ancient woodland, a lake and a deer park. This vast landscape invites visitors to explore and reconnect with nature, yet you are only 4.5km from the elegant spa-town of Ilkley.

The estate's reserve is more than a beautiful backdrop; it's a living project dedicated to ecological restoration. Moving away from traditional land use, the working estate is pioneering nature-led management, enhancing natural habitats, improving soil health and planting over 40,000 trees to date. They are also hoping to welcome beavers to its rivers and wetlands, a milestone moment that supports flood mitigation and boosts biodiversity across the landscape.

A short drive away, Ilkley is renowned for its independent shops, cafes and the famous Ilkley Moor, perfect for a bracing walk with panoramic views. A little further afield, the Victorian charm of Harrogate (28km) and the cultural buzz of Leeds (28km) offer a tempting mix of boutiques, galleries and heritage architecture, or follow the footsteps of the Brontë sisters in Haworth (27km). For lovers of the outdoors, the surrounding area brims with opportunities to roam, with the Yorkshire Moors beckoning walkers, photographers and nature lovers alike.

Guests are also ideally positioned to explore a host of nearby attractions. Wander the majestic ruins of Bolton Abbey (14km), uncover centuries of history at Skipton Castle (20km) or visit the UNESCO-listed village of Saltaire (18km), where Victorian industrial heritage meets vibrant modern culture.

Whether you're seeking an ideal events venue, a restorative escape or a base for adventure, Fairfax Hall promises a rich and rewarding stay amid some of Yorkshire's most inspiring scenery.
