Villa Las Maretas

Region: Fuerteventura Sleeps: 10

Overview

Villa Las Maretas is a contemporary villa in Fuerteventura where modern design meets the island's striking volcanic landscape. Defined by soft curves and organic architectural lines, the property has been created to connect indoor and outdoor living while embracing the surrounding environment. Light-filled interiors and minimalist styling give the villa a calm and welcoming atmosphere, offering guests a space designed for comfort and relaxation.

The outdoor areas are arranged to make the most of the dramatic desert and volcanic scenery that surrounds the villa. A private swimming pool sits alongside terraces with sun loungers and outdoor dining areas, creating inviting spaces for long days spent outdoors. Guests can gather around the barbecue or relax in the various seating areas while enjoying panoramic views across the volcanic terrain. Inside, the villa features spacious living and dining areas with a TV, along with a fully equipped kitchen designed for easy, sociable meals.

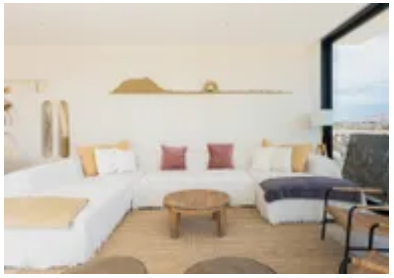

Villa Las Maretas is located within a protected natural reserve in Fuerteventura, where the surrounding desert landscape and volcanic formations create a sense of openness and quiet. From the villa, guests can enjoy uninterrupted views across the rugged terrain and experience the distinctive natural beauty that defines this part of the island, with wide horizons and striking sunsets over the volcanic landscape.

Location & Local Information

Villa Las Maretas is set in a dramatic landscape shaped by Fuerteventura's volcanic past, where wide desert plains and ancient craters define the horizon. The villa's position allows guests to experience the island's raw natural beauty, with open views across the volcanic terrain and vast skies that make sunsets here particularly memorable.

The surrounding area offers plenty of opportunities to explore the landscape that makes this part of the island so distinctive. One of the highlights nearby is the hike up Calderón Hondo, one of Fuerteventura's most accessible volcanic craters, where a walking path leads to the rim with sweeping views across the lava fields and neighbouring islands. The nearby village of Lajares is also well worth visiting, known for its relaxed atmosphere, local cafés and small restaurants that have made it a popular stop for visitors exploring the north of the island.

From the villa, guests can also head towards the coast to discover the beaches around El Cotillo, where wide sandy bays and clear Atlantic waters offer a completely different landscape from the volcanic interior. Whether spending the day exploring the crater landscapes, enjoying the laid-back vibe of Lajares, or relaxing by the sea in El Cotillo, Villa Las Maretas provides a peaceful base for experiencing this varied corner of northern Fuerteventura.

What we love

- The roof terrace at Villas Las Maretas is a wonderful place to start the day with coffee or to watch the sunset over the dramatic landscape
- The location is perfect for exploring the island's contrasting landscapes - hike Calderón Hondo, relax on the beach or experience local life in the nearby towns
- The villa's interiors combine modern design with a relaxed, bohemian feel, making it easy to unwind after a day exploring the island

What you should know...

- Due to the roof terrace and unfenced swimming pool, children will require supervision
- The village of Lajares is within walking distance, however please be aware the route may not have pavements
- Villas Las Maretas is located next to Villa Los Corraletes (https://www.oliverstravels.com/spain/canary-islands/fuerteventura/villa-los-corraletes/), meaning both can be rented together for your group, or if you wish to rent only one, the other may be in use but will separated and you will still retain your privacy
