La Maison De L'Eglise

Region: Aquitaine Sleeps: 6

Overview

Stone walls and historic beams set the tone at La Maison De l'Eglise, where the pace of rural village life unfolds in the Charente countryside. This traditional home carries a sense of heritage, its character revealed through exposed masonry and a warm, lived-in feel that invites you to settle in from the moment you arrive.

Inside, the farmhouse kitchen forms the heart of the house, centred around a classic aga and flowing easily into a pretty dining area. The living room offers a relaxed setting for evenings together, with soft light filtering through the pretty windows. Downstairs, a dedicated games room brings a more playful energy, complete with a pool table, table football and bar with stools, creating an easy space for both adults and children to unwind.

Upstairs, four thoughtfully arranged bedrooms include a wood-beamed master en suite bedroom, alongside an additional double and a twin room, served by a good-sized family shower room.

Outside, the courtyard garden is designed for long, unhurried days, with a private pool (which can be heated for a supplement) and its surrounding terrace. Loungers line the water's edge, while a shaded dining area sets the scene for relaxed lunches and evening meals together. Table tennis adds another touch of easy entertainment, and private gated parking ensures a seamless stay.

Set in a small rural village near the village church, the house offers an authentic base within easy reach of local highlights. A short drive leads to another local village for fresh bread and a simple meal out, while Aigre and Ruffec provide lively markets, cafés and everyday amenities. The surrounding region invites exploration, from riverside walks and historic towns to vineyard visits in Cognac.

Whether gathering with family or enjoying a slower rhythm of life, this characterful home offers a setting where simple rural pleasures can be appreciated.

Location & Local Information

Located in the traditional village of Charmé, La Maison De l'Eglise offers an authentic slice of rural Charente life. Between Angoulême (41km) and Poitiers (79km), it provides a well-balanced base for both relaxation and exploration, within easy reach of some of the region's most characterful towns and attractions.

The house is positioned near the village church, close to the road connecting Aigre and Ruffec. For fresh bread in the morning, the nearby village of Courcôme (4.5km) offers a bakery as well as a restaurant. A little further afield, Verteuil-sur-Charente (11km) is a very pretty village with a lovely restaurant in a mill overlooking the river.

Further amenities can be found in Aigre (11.5km), a charming market town with a selection of shops and cafes. Ruffec (11.5km) is also useful for shops and restaurants – it's a picturesque historic town with half-timbered houses and a twice-weekly market. Similarly, Mansle-les-Fontaines (12km) offers convenient facilities along with a pleasant riverside setting by the banks of the Charente.

For memorable days out, Cognac (53km) is a highlight, famed for its vineyards and prestigious distilleries. Here, you can visit renowned houses such as Hennessy and Rémy Martin, enjoy guided tastings, and stroll along the scenic banks of the Charente River. The nearby town of Jarnac (42km) offers another beautiful riverside experience, ideal for a leisurely afternoon.

Angoulême (42km) makes for an excellent cultural excursion, known for its historic architecture and vibrant atmosphere. For something more futuristic, Futuroscope theme park, located just south of Poitiers (around an hour's drive), offers a unique and entertaining day out with its innovative attractions and immersive experiences.

Blending rural charm with easy access to market towns, vineyards and cultural landmarks, this location offers a wonderfully varied Charente escape.
