Casa Lusitana

Region: Sagres Sleeps: 16

Overview

Casa Lusitana is a spacious private estate in Portugal's western Algarve, designed to host large groups while still allowing for privacy and flexibility. With two independent villas, a separate studio, and additional private suites, the property accommodates up to 18 guests, making it particularly well suited to extended families, group holidays, or retreat-style stays.

The layout naturally supports both shared moments and quieter downtime. Living spaces are spread across the two villas, each offering open-plan areas for cooking, dining, and relaxing, while bedrooms are positioned across multiple buildings, many with ensuite bathrooms and direct outdoor access. Wood-burning fireplaces and simple, well-considered interiors create a comfortable and unfussy atmosphere throughout.

The outdoor areas play a central role in the experience. A natural swimming pool - purified using sand filtration, UV light, and aquatic plants - offers a distinctive alternative to traditional pools. There are several outdoor dining areas, barbecue spaces, and terraces designed for long, sociable meals, along with walking paths and a small private lake.

The coastline around Aljezur is within easy reach, giving guests access to some of the region's best beaches while enjoying a more peaceful rural base.

Location & Local Information

Casa Lusitana is located in the countryside just outside Rogil, in the western Algarve - an area known for its wild coastline and more laid-back atmosphere. This part of the region feels noticeably less developed than the central Algarve, with open landscapes and a strong connection to the surrounding natural park.

Within a short drive, you'll reach some of the area's most well-known beaches, including Praia da Amoreira and Monte Clérigo, both popular for their wide stretches and consistent surf. Rogil itself offers a handful of local cafés and traditional bakeries, while nearby Aljezur provides a broader choice of restaurants, small shops, and markets.

The Costa Vicentina Natural Park surrounds the area, with coastal paths and inland trails that make it particularly appealing for walking and exploring. It's a location that suits those looking to balance time at the beach with a quieter, more rural base.

What we love

- The estate-style layout, offering a mix of shared living and private spaces across multiple buildings
- The natural swimming pool with its hybrid filtration system using sand, ultraviolet light, and aquatic plants
- The generous outdoor areas, including dining spaces, terraces, and walking paths throughout the grounds

What you should know...

- The accommodation is spread across several buildings, which may not suit groups wanting to stay all under one roof
- The natural pool and small lake are open features, so younger children will need supervision
- Some bedrooms are located in separate suites and a studio, offering privacy but less immediate access to main living areas
- A car is recommended to reach nearby beaches, restaurants, and shops
