Trullo Joel

Region: Puglia Sleeps: 4

Overview

The stunning countryside near Ostuni, hosts this 19th-century trullo which has the advantages of a modern holiday home while retaining its original beauty.
Its private pool and a garden with sunbeds and olive trees allow you to enjoy the relaxed Puglian lifestyle right outside the door.

The characteristic arches and alcoves of this traditional house have been carefully preserved and the rugged white stone walls and tiled floors give it that real Italian ambience. Trullo Joel is well-equipped too, featuring two double bedrooms, each with en-suite shower. One of these can be set as a twin if required.

A cosy lounge and dining area complement a fully fitted kitchen with a dishwasher - all you need to get cooking each evening. Outside, you will find a barbecue too, as well as a covered patio with table and chairs. The views of the surrounding countryside will make dining outside all the more pleasurable, and the area is a treat to explore – full of fragrance and colour to delight the senses.

The famed 'white city' of Ostuni is just a few kilometres from Trullo Joel, and certainly worth an excursion or two. White-washed houses seem to tumble down the hillside looking out across the sea, and its medieval centre is still a muddle of charming little streets it's a joy to get lost in. A beautiful Gothic cathedral surveys it all from its position at the top of the hill.

Many more appealing towns and cities are within easy reach. Martina Franca, Locorotondo and Alberobello are all enchanting places to visit inland, while the stunning beaches of the Puglian coast are never far away either – Trullo Joel enjoys the best of both worlds.

The local owners will be pleased to share their knowledge of this incredible region, guaranteeing you an authentic taste of Puglian culture.

Location & Local Information

Known as the ‘white city’, Ostuni is an enchanting discovery on Italy’s Puglian coast. The old town sits on a hilltop looking out to sea and has much to delight visitors, including a Gothic cathedral built in the 15th century. Views out across the Adriatic and some pretty beaches nearby also draw people to the area.

There is a lot of architecture to admire in Ostuni. Landmarks like the Palazzo Municipale and the Column of Sant’Oronzo are notable, yet it’s not all about the past. These days, you’re just as likely to visit the city for its excellent restaurants where you can get a genuine taste of what Puglian cuisine is all about. In a region packed with vineyards and olive groves, you know you are going to eat and drink well when you arrive in Ostuni.
