Location & Local Information

The superb, sandy beach, Praia da Marinha, is a stone's throw from the villa; this is considered one of Europe's top beaches. The clear waters and long sandy stretches along with interesting coves make this an ideal family day out. The supermarket for provisions is a short distance away.

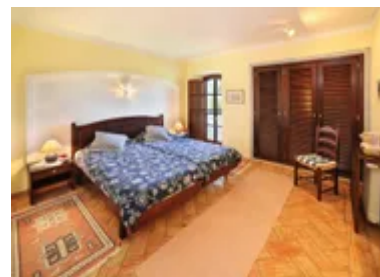

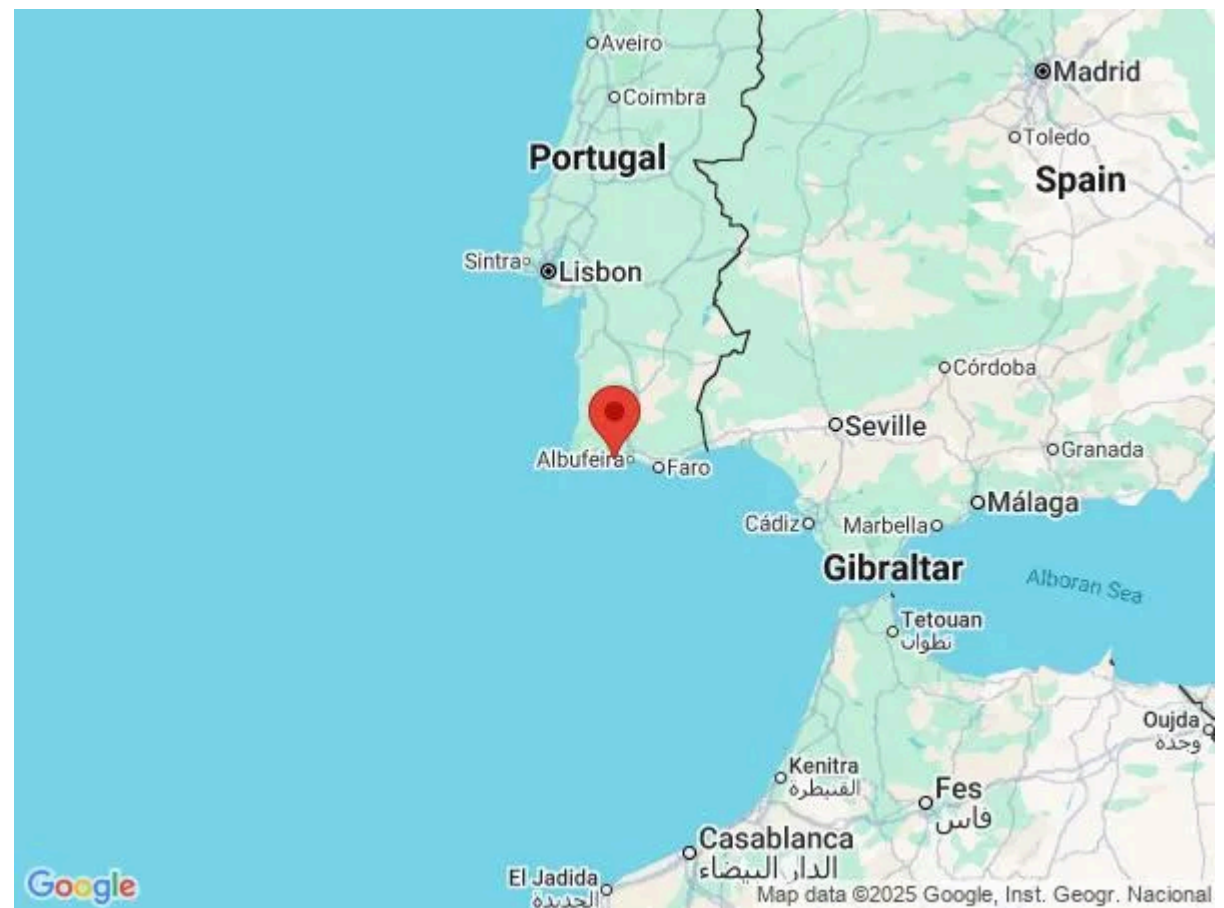

Likewise, local family-run restaurants and bars for sampling the rustic cuisine of the region or seafood are only a few kilometres distance. The local town of Carvoeiro is just five kilometres away; previously a sleepy fishing village it has now developed into a lovely, vibrant holiday location with plenty of attractions while not having a "resort" feel.

Faro airport is fifty-six kilometres away; transfers can be arranged. The rugged cliffs around the coastline in this stretch of the Algarve are among the most beautiful in Portugal. There is ample opportunity for boat trips; a particular delight is taking the boat from Portimao's harbour to visit the century's old caves.

There indeed is something for everyone in this region: trekking, water sports, golf, horse riding - outdoors enthusiasts will be spoilt for choice! Further along the coast is the resort town of Albufeira. Albufeira is the liveliest and busiest town on Portugal's beautiful southern Algarve coastline. Previously a modest fishing village, it is now a well known coastal town brimming with holiday potential.

Traditional charm by way of original Moorish flair, the 'Old Town' offers a little taste of historical and sleepy small-town authenticity. A stone's throw from the quiet white-washed streets you will find the dynamic and edgy "Strip" for a buzzing nightlife experience.

This part of Portugal offers both ocean and mountains, vibrant city life as well as many rural pursuits; visitors of all ages will find plenty to entertain them. The area is one of outstanding natural beauty, much of it forming part of a conservation area.

History buffs through to adrenaline seeking water sports lovers will not be short of opportunity. There is a reason why the region attracts more visitors, year after year.
