Location & Local Information

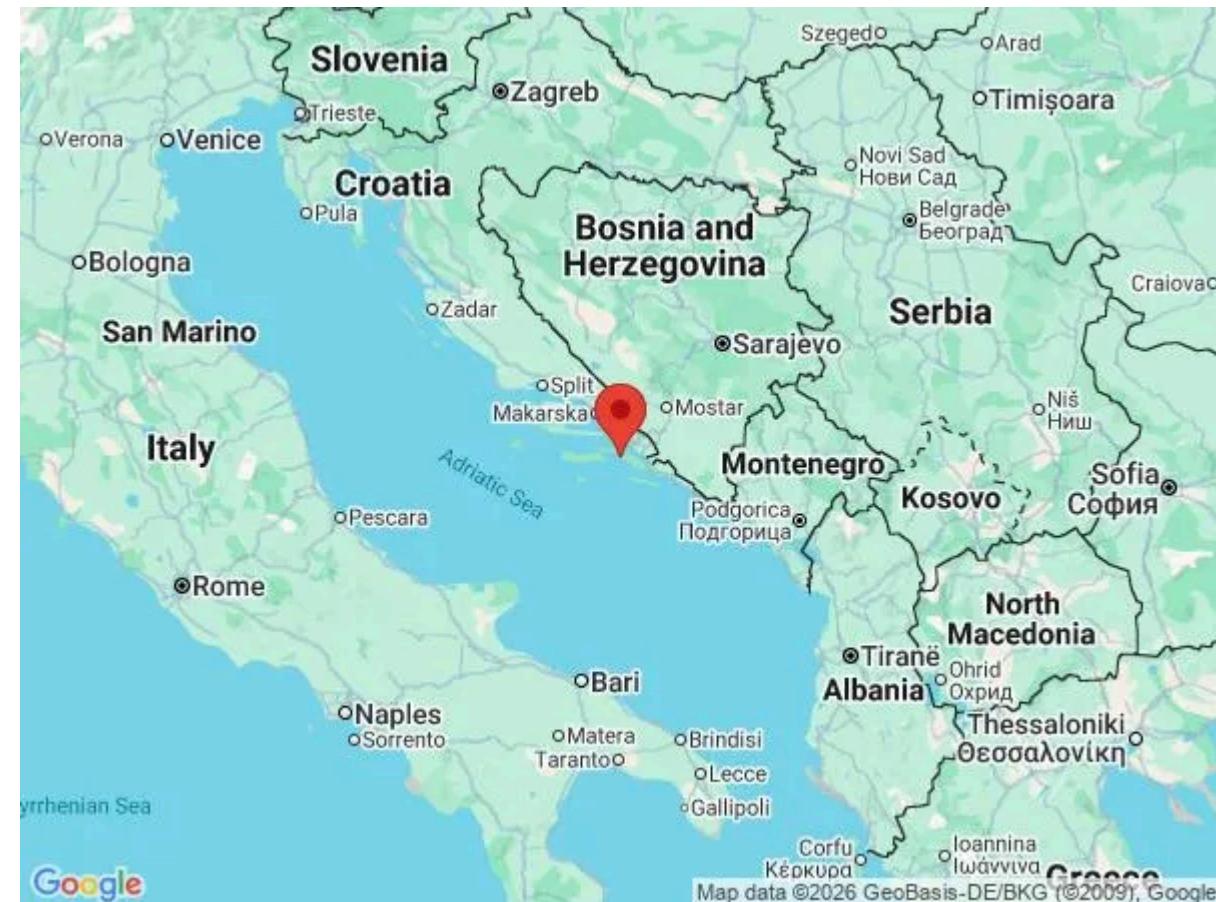

Villa Radmilla enjoys a tranquil setting in a small coastal village on the Pelješac peninsula, under five hundred metres from the beach and a two-hour drive from Dubrovnik. The charming town of Orebic is only twenty minutes away, offering a delightful mix of natural beauty, cultural heritage, and local charm.

Framed by the Elias Mountain and lined with unspoilt beaches, Orebic is a scenic spot on the Dalmatian coast. Trstenica Beach is the most popular, offering cafés, restaurants, and water sports, while quieter coves and hidden bays are within walking distance or a short boat ride away. A seafront promenade leads to authentic seafood restaurants and the Maritime Museum, which showcases the town's nautical past.

Wine enthusiasts will appreciate the region's renowned family-run vineyards, particularly Korta Katarina Winery, where tastings of local varieties such as Chardonnay, Postup, and Dingač can be arranged. For those seeking a touch of history, the fifteenth-century Franciscan Monastery houses the revered icon of Our Lady of the Angels, long believed to protect local sailors.
