Le Logis Du General

Region: Atlantic Coast Sleeps: 20

Overview

When staying at Le Logis Du Général, you are not only enjoying a beautiful and elegant home but also becoming part of a remarkable 18th-century estate surrounded by exquisite gardens and over 100 hectares of parkland in the Vendée. Once home to a general during the Vendée wars of the French Revolution, the estate is now a classified national historic monument, with an impressive château just a short walk away.

The property features ten bedrooms, nine within the elegant main house and adjoining annexe, plus a tenth in a simple neighbouring studio. Inside, the interiors combine historic charm with comfort, showcasing fine furnishings, antique details and ornate décor carefully preserved by the owners.

Outside, beautifully maintained gardens with rose-filled borders and sweeping lawns provide a peaceful setting. Guests can relax by the heated swimming pool and pool house, complete with a kitchen, long dining table, Wi-Fi and music system. Activities include a private tennis court, billiards, table tennis, badminton and volleyball, or simply exploring the estate's woodland and ponds.

Nearby villages offer bakeries and markets, while the Atlantic coast's sandy beaches, charming seaside towns and the island of Noirmoutier are all within easy reach for memorable day trips.

Location & Local Information

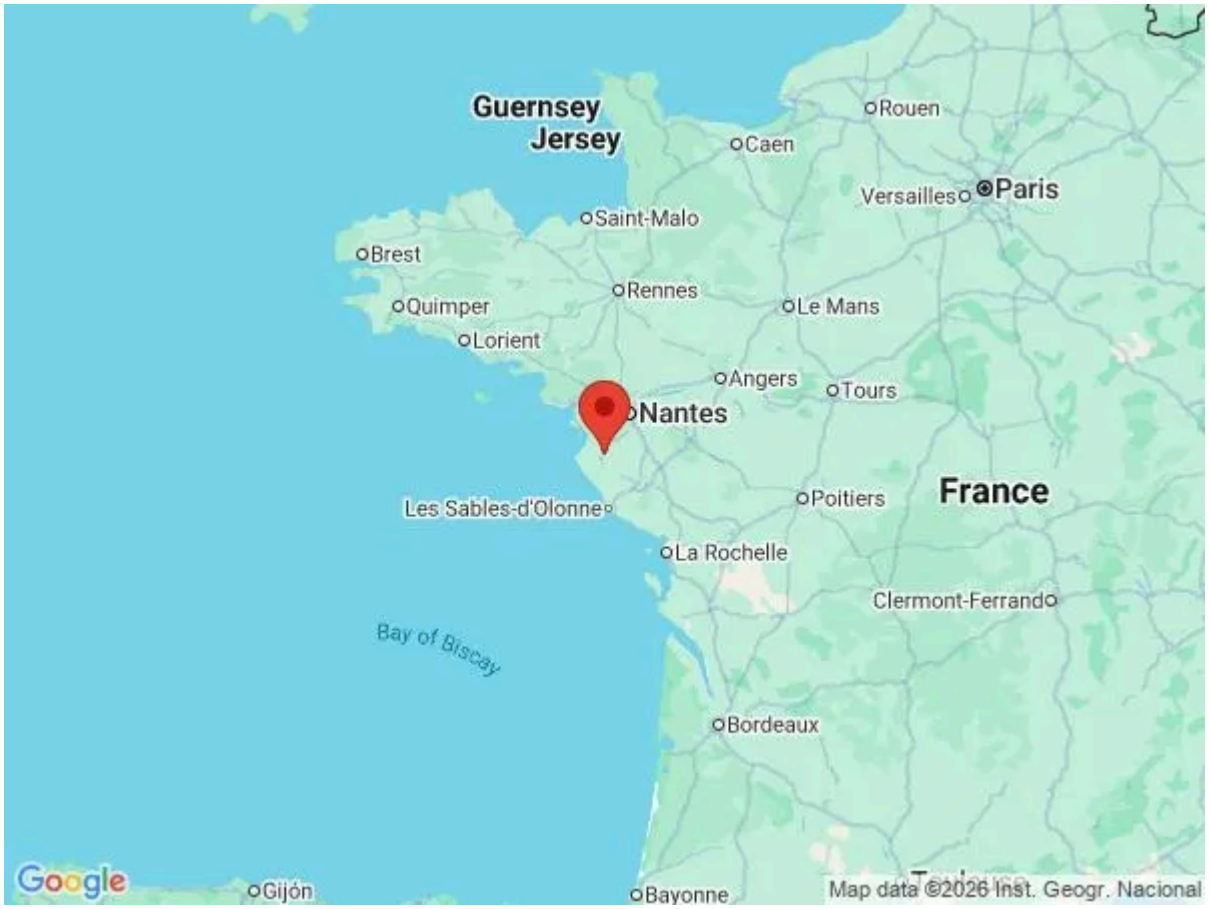

Le Logis Du Général sits within a beautiful family estate in the Vendée, surrounded by elegant gardens and over 100 hectares of parkland, woodland and ponds where guests are free to explore. The nearest village is just 2.5km away, offering bakeries, a supermarket and a restaurant, while the larger town of Challans (9km) features a charming covered market and a wider range of shops.

Around 30km away, the Atlantic coast offers broad sandy beaches at Saint-Jean-de-Monts, perfect for family days by the sea, cycling along the promenade or enjoying water sports such as sailing and surfing. The seaside town of Saint-Gilles-Croix-de-Vie is known for its lively harbour and delicious grilled sardines.

For a memorable excursion, visit the island of Noirmoutier, famous for its pine-fringed beaches, rock pools and fresh seafood. Inland, the tranquil wetlands of the Marais Poitevin offer boat trips and scenic cycling routes, while the vibrant city of Nantes is within easy reach for culture, markets and excellent dining.

What we love

- The main house and annexe are both elegant and traditional with ornate décor and historic furnishings.
- The pool house is a wonderful place for family and friends to gather with a kitchen, long dining table and music system.
- There are endless activities for all ages from tennis and badminton to table football and volleyball among others.
- There is a fantastic covered market in Challans (9km) multiple mornings a week.
- The vast sandy beaches of the Atlantic coast and some of the region's finest sea-food are only half an hour away.

What you should know...

- The accommodation is spread across the main house, the annexe and a studio, each with a separate entrance.
- The tenth bedroom is a studio with a living area, kitchenette and bunkbeds.
- The vast estate includes a stunning château (seen in the photo) which is no longer in use and ponds, which are mainly fenced off (child supervision is still recommended).
- Please note that there is a mandatory cost of €1500 (2025) per week to be paid in addition to the rental price to cover maintenance and services (please see T&Cs tab). This fee will increase to €2000 per week in 2026.
