Location & Local Information

Located just a ten-minute walk to Playa América, an impressive sweep of golden beach, this villa provides a convenient location. Wander along the shoreline to discover the local shop, fishmonger, restaurants and cafes that nestle amongst the traditional seafront homes that line the promenade. Continue to the end of the beach to reach the delightful fishing port of Panxon, or drive just a few minutes in the other direction to sample the many culinary delights of chic Baiona.

In Baiona, you will find peace and quiet, as well as an urban environment. This is the ideal destination if you are looking for a lively atmosphere on a summer night; guests can enjoy a drink at one of the many charming terrace cafés by the sea and many popular nightspots. Delicious gastronomy is at the heart of this beautiful town, with fresh fish and seafood caught daily. Baiona is also known as Villa de la Arribada (Port of Entry), as it was the first town in Europe to learn of the discovery of America.

There are a range of watersports activities on offer in Baiona, like snorkelling, diving and jet skiing. Numerous boating trips are also a fantastic option, where guests can visit the surrounding bays, including the stunning Cíes Islands, which are easily reachable by boat and contain stunning beaches. One of these beaches was once dubbed the 'best beach in the world' by The Guardian!

To the south, the Rías Baixas region offers you spectacular locations, including Oia Monastery, built atop the rocks by the sea, forever gazing out at the horizon and splashed by salt water. The fishing village of A Guarda is only a few kilometres away. It is crowned by the Celtic fortified settlement of Santa Tecla, from which you can get a view of the spectacular mouth of the Miño River, where Galicia and Portugal meet. And if you have got this far, you might even feel like heading south to Portugal's Costa Verde region, where the beaches are endless, and pine woods embrace the sea.
