Location & Local Information

Villa Mandira is just a few steps away from the soft white sand of the stunning Legian Beach, a popular destination for sun worship and water sports. This stretch of sand continues north of the coast of the surfing mecca of Kuta, and ends where Seminyak Beach begins. With few crowds and low tides Legian is a popular place to relax.

Snorkelling tours are available here, where tourists can spend the morning swimming with tropical fish and turtles, all rounded off with an Indonesian lunch.

Its clear waters make Legian Beach a great spot for swimming and paddling, and the streets lined with boutiques and restaurants make Legian ideal for a leisurely walk after a day on the sand.

You can't visit Bali without trying your hand at surfing and The Rip Curl School of Surf has an international reputation for being one of the best around. The school offers courses for all levels in surfing, wakeboarding, kite and windsurfing, and stand-up paddleboard. Legian's waves are not as crowded as nearby Kuta's, providing perfect conditions for beginners.

If you'd rather soak up the sun and spectate instead, beach volley ball and soccer matches are often played here, or simply lay back and relax with a drink and hand and await one of Bali's magnificent sunsets.
